RAILWAY HEADS DEMAND RELIEF IN RATE CRISIS

50 Roads Join in Request for Remedy to Halt Income Loss.

$400,000,000 SOUGHT THROUGH REVISION

Wages Will Not Be Reduced in Seeking Readjustment of General Revenues.

Chicago, May 8 (A.P.).—Fifty railroad presidents, admitting "the emergency which exists as to the credit and income of the railroads," recommended today a study of freight rates, with a view to readjusting and revising them to provide additional revenue.

In the name of their organization, the association of railway executives, they adopted a resolution instructing the six rate groups in this country to start at once on a determination of how possible recovery of revenues may be brought about.

While in some cases there might be downward revisions to afford more equitable competition in the transportation of certain commodities, it was understood that a general shift upward would be sought. It was agreed there would be no wage reductions. The executives said their wish was for relief from losses in revenue since 1922 due to what they termed a "whittling" at the rate structure.

Wages Will Stand.

Out of their four large items of expense, they said, their taxes are increasing, interest charges fixed and maintainance reduced to the limit, one spokesman said "it was the opinion of all that wage-cutting would simply continue the vicious circle."

The carriers hope for a rate revision which would add $400,000,000 annually to their revenues. Of this approximate amount, about $160,000,000 would be invested in labor, officials said, reinstating many men on pay rolls. Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio, was appointed chairman of a committee to formulate the resolution.

The resolution said that an emergency existed as to the credit and income of the carriers. The view of the meeting was that wages should not be cut to remedy this condition, as such action would result eventually in lowered freight tonnage by impairing the income of millions of workers dependent largely on the railroads for their livelihoods

Differentials Remain Fixed.

Differentials would remain fixed and channels of trade undisturbed by the proposed revision of rate structures. The rate groups—Southeast, main trunk Central, Western, Southwest and New England—are expected to require a month in the study.

Railroad officials estimate they have lost $2,800,000,000 in revenue since 1922, and that $365,000,000 was lopped off revenues last year, in comparison with rates existing in 1922. If the 1930 loss extended through 1931 a total of $500,000,000 in gross revenue would be lost, according to their estimates.

The executives said that the rate reductions have been so gradual as to escape the attention of the public generally. Reduced rates on cotton, oil and automobiles, from force of competition, they said, have brought back some business, but have not helped in recovery of losses suffered since the rates were last horizontally raised in 1920.

The executives said that business would improve generally with an improvement in the condition of "industry's largest customer," the railroads.

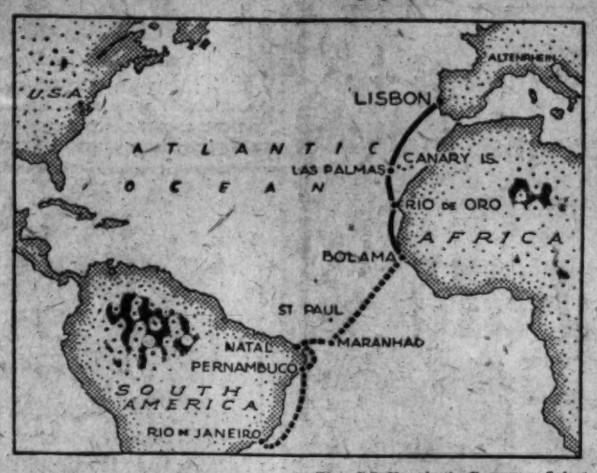
DO-X Winging Way On 1,600 Mile Flight To Island Off Brazil



The DO-X, giant German flying boat, which took off yesterday from Portuguese Guinea on the last leg of its South Atlantic flight to Brazil. Solid line, route covered; broken line, proposed route.

Journey Long Delayed by Mishaps; Hop Will Take 30 Hours.

Berlin, May 8 (A.P.).—A Telegraphen Union dispatch tonight reported that the giant German flying boat DO-X had left the Bissagos Islands, off Portuguese Guinea, this morning on her long-delayed flight to South America.

The dispatch said the great seaplane had headed for Fernando Noronha, 200 miles off the Brazilian coast. The distance to this island is some 1,600 miles.

Meanwhile officials of the Dornier Works here had received no word of the take-off from the plane, which is commanded by Commander Friedrich Christiansen.

Some perplexity was expressed by the company officials at the absence

PREAKNESS TODAY TO ATTRACT 50,000

Twenty Grand Is Slight Favorite for Classic Over Equipoise.

Baltimore, Md., May 8 (U.P.).—Ancient Pimlico, an expected host to upward of 50,000 excited race fans on the morrow, settled into a lull tonight to be broken only when nine sturdy colts answer the bugle in the historic Preakness. The smallest field in recent years will compete for the stake, which will net the winner in the neighborhood of $50,000. Two are doubtful starters — the Greentree stable's Anchors Aweigh and W. J. Salmon's Ladder.

The majority of the contestants were on the track early this morning to wind up their training and performed in a manner satisfactory to their connections. "Fit and ready," was the word passed on from the various stables.

The racing strip, dulled by the rains of the past two days, was rapidly assuming a firmer mold. Intermittent sunshine throughout the day coupled with vigorous grooming by groundsmen had absorbed the bulk of water from the strip and with prevailing conditions, the oval should be no worse than "good" when the field parades postward.

The honor of favoritism inclined toward the Greentree Stable's Twenty Grand tonight, but Equipoise, which showed fine form in workouts after his disappointing race at Havre de Grace, has won back public favor and will be a close second choice unless post-time odds make him the favorite. Twenty Grand will have two stablemates in the race if both Surf Board and Anchors Aweigh start, but the latter is not likely to go unless rain turns the track sloppy.

Rich in racing history, the Preakness ranks high in importance with the leading 3-year-old stakes of the country. Many of the leading thoroughbreds are named on its scroll. Its inaugural in 1873 was won by J. F. Chamberlain's Survivor, with George Barbee in the saddle. Barbee, still in good health, will watch the running of this year's renewal from a seat in the clubhouse. William Woodward, whose Gallant Fox annexed the race in 1930, will be present to present the perpetual trophy to tomorrow's winning owner.

Due to the fact that the entrants all are owned by wealthy sportsmen,

BURKE GANGSTERS CAPTURED IN RAID

Arsenal Is Found as Police Take Men Wanted for Bank Robberies.

East St. Louis, Ill., May 8 (U.P.).—Members of the gang of bank robbers and thugs directed by the notorious killer, Fred Burke, were arrested late today in a spectacular raid here by sheriff's officers, authorities announced.

A veritable arsenal was found, including several machine guns, sawed-off shotguns, dynamite and pistols.

The raiders were directed by Sergts. Roy Steffen and Charles Jasinski, of the Chicago State's attorney's office, who were working in cooperation with the crime fighting committee of Chicago millionaires known as the "Secret Six."

So well was the raid planned that there was no disorder. How many of the gang were captured, Sergt. Steffen refused to say. He identified three of them, however, as Tom Connor, Jack Britt and Tom Hayes.

The gang is wanted for numerous bank robberies throughout the Middle West. It also is suspected of staging the spectacular kidnaping several weeks ago of Dr. Isaac D. Kelley, jr., wealthy St. Louis surgeon. Dr. Kelley was returned without payment of ransom, it was said.

The gang is wanted particularly for the spectacular robbery of a Lincoln, Neb., bank about two years ago. D. B. Dasbaum, former chief of police of Lincoln, has spent all of his time since trailing the robbers, and he is supposed to have had a hand in the capture.

Baltimorean Is Named Maryland U. S. Judge

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover yesterday appointed Calvin Chesnut, of Baltimore, to be United States judge for the district of Maryland, succeeding Judge Soper, who recently was promoted to the United States Court of Appeals.

Baltimore, Md., May 8 (A.P.).—W. Calvin Chesnut, appointed Federal district judge today by President Hoover, has been connected with the University of Maryland law school since 1900. From 1896 to 1900 he was assistant State's attorney. Born in Baltimore in 1873, he was educated here.

Cities 'Menaced' by Air 'War' Are Reassured by Hurley

Army Aviation Wants Goodwill of Nation, Secretary Says in Telling Critics Maneuvers Will Not Violate Laws; Risks Held Necessary.

(United Press.)

The prospect of an armada of zooming airplanes skimming the tops of skyscrapers when the Army stages its air demonstration over large cities, including Washington, late this month has brought letters of protest to the War Department.

Secretary of War Hurley, informed yesterday that some New York citizens were worried about the realistic attack planned on the Battery district there, said he would confer with Assistant Secretary Davison, in charge of aeronautics, to see if any modification of plans were necessary.

"The War Department will not violate the laws or regulations of any community," Secretary Hurley declared. "We want good will for the Army aviation service, not ill feeling."

The $3,000,000 maneuvers, starting at Dayton, Ohio, May 18—international good will day—will mark the assembling of the first peace-time aviation division. More than 672 planes will fly in the armada, including National Guard planes from many parts of the country. Warlike demonstrations are planned over New York City, Baltimore, Philadelphia, Washington and Chicago.

Within the past two weeks, it was learned, the War Department has received a number of criticisms of the great war games. Some come from pacifist groups opposing the demonstration on the ground that it promotes militarism.

Others have come from National Guard units who criticized the war games on the ground that they were of no real military advantage and were almost sure to lead to fatalities. The most thoroughgoing criticisms, it is

DEPUTIES RAISE BRIAND'S HOPES FOR PRESIDENCY

French Foreign Minister Given Smashing Vote of Confidence.

CUSTOMS UNION HIT BY 430 TO 52 COUNT

Official Announcement of Candidacy Arouses Paris' Interest.

Paris, Saturday, May 9 (A.P.).—All the doors of the Elysee Palace were opened wide to Foreign Minister Aristide Briand early today when the Chamber of Deputies by a smashing vote of 430 to 52, indorsed his six years of indefatigible labor in the cause of world peace.

The vote of confidence was based on a motion, which condemned the proposed Austro-German customs union and advocated a policy of international understanding and cooperation.

The chamber gave the great majority with the significant phrase "approving the government's declarations," or, in other words, Briand's speech.

M. Briand's friends expressed the belief that any lingering hesitation he may have held over being a presidential candidate can hardly continue after such a tribute to his accomplishments.

His candidacy was put forward officially by radical and moderate groups under conditions such that political observers generally consider it would be difficult for him to refuse.

Step Toward Peace Cited.

During the debate, which preceded the vote and lasted until a late hour, the foreign minister defended his policies and also described his proposed European economic views. He was frequently applauded during the address, which required more than an hour.

"Every step I have taken has been a step toward peace," he said. "My policies have made it possible to settle grave questions without resort to arms. It is harder to make war now than it ever was in the past."

M. Briand took entire responsibility for France's foreign policies, which he said had increased her prestige abroad.

"Frenchmen traveling from the ends of the earth come to me to say that France's prestige has never been so great," he said. "France is considered a soldier of peace."

Test of Good Faith Awaited.

The contemplated Austro-German Customs Union has not yet been established, he declared, and both countries will find a place of equality with other European states in the plan advocated by France. All Europe will be at Geneva, he said, and it will then be possible to measure the good faith of Germany and Austria, "who said they had a right to make an economic treaty."

"I turn to Austria," he went on, "and I say it was France who foresaw Austria's economic dicicculties and intervened so it could live."

Returning to emphasize his plan for "European solidarity," he said: "I hope Stresemann's successor realizes that frontiers no longer are made arbitrarily."

M. Briand indirectly took credit for halting German-Roumanian negoti-

CROWLEY HELD AS MURDERER; CHAIR LOOMING

DURINGER IS CHARGED WITH KILLING DANCER

Placed in Separate Jails as Trials Are Speeded; Girl Aids Prosecution.

New York, May 8 (A.P.).—The law moved swiftly today to punish Francis Crowley, captured with a girl and man companion in a dramatic gun battle late yesterday, and held for two slayings.

In a matter of minutes Crowley and Rudolph Duringer were indicted for first degree murder, Crowley for the killing of Patrolman Frederick Hirsch, of Long Island, and Duringer for the slaying of Virginia Brannen, a dance hall hostess. Detectives announced both signed confessions.

Bronx and Nassau County prosecutors said the two defendants would be brought to trial within a week if cases against them could be prepared by that time.

Prisoners Are Separated.

Duringer was locked up in Bronx County Jail and Crowley placed in Nassau County Hospital under police guard for treatment of wounds he received in yesterday's battle with 100 police in a West Ninetieth street, Manhattan, rooming house.

The girl companion of Crowley, Helen Walsh, 16, was taken to an unrevealed private home under guard of a police matron as a material witness. Authorities said she had made statements about the patrolman's killing which would help to convict Crowley.

While these developments were in progress Duringer and his companions of the night ride on which Virginia Brannen was slain went in a police motor over the route taken March 27, and officers said Duringer pointed out the spot in the Bronx where he shot the dime-a-dance girl to death.

Girl's Killing Starts Hunt.

It was Virginia Brannen, of the Taxi Dance Halls, who first set police hunting for the two desperadoes when her body, a bullet through the stomach, was found near Yonkers April 27. Helen Walsh was with Crowley when, by his own confession, he slew Policeman Frederick Hirsch last Tuesday.

And it was another woman—Billie Dunne, like the Brannen girl, a dance hall "hostess"—who tipped Crowley and Duringer into the hands of the law last night.

The Walsh girl, sobbing on the shoulder of a police matron, went before the Nassau County grand jury today. Her testimony, with that of a few others, led to Crowley's indictment on a first-degree murder charge in the record time of 26 minutes.

Says He Loved Girl.

Less than three hours later Duringer, handcuffed to detectives, had been taken before the Bronx grand jury and indicted for the murder of the Brannen girl.

"I loved her," he told police, "but she wanted to marry another fellow. I got sore and shot her."

The capture of Crowley and Duringer, together with the Walsh girl, in the most brazen armed resistance to

Martial Law Ordered In Tia Juana Slaying

New Mayor Accused of Having Inflicted Fatal Wounds During Attack Upon Him and Bodyguard by Political Enemies.

San Diego, Calif., May 8 (A.P.).—Tia Juana, Mexican border resort town, noted for its gambling games, was under martial law tonight following the death of Roque Sabida Quijano, who was shot when political enemies attacked Mayor Miquel Angel Menendez and his bodyguard last night.

Quijano, secretary to the mayor, died here today from wounds which Tia Juana labor leaders said were inflicted by the mayor during the attack by seven men. They said the mayor drew his gun and it was discharged during the struggle.

The assault was made after Mayor Menendez addressed a meeting at the labor temple in the Lower California town. Jose Ricardi, aviator, and Dr. L. Y. Robert, in the party, were severely beaten. The mayor was uninjured.

The attack was said to have been the result of dissatisfaction with the appointment of Mayor Menendez, who succeeded Rafael Sierra Dominguez, three days ago. Tia Juana officials said Dominquez resigned because government officials handicapped his administration program, which was widely approved by labor leaders.

Military forces under Col. Carlos Allamon Vasquez, commander of the sixth batallion, stationed at Tia Juana, policed the city on orders of Gov. Carlos Trejoz Tejada of the northern district of Lower California.

Col. Vasquez also had police forces at his disposal to maintain order at a street demonstration called for tonight. Circulars were distributed calling upon citizens to participate in the demonstration against the new administration.

Labor leaders said that although the mayor had named Senor Castro, former secretary in the mayor's office, and G. Pavon, editor of a Tia Juana labor paper, as leaders of the agitation against him, he has not had them arrested for their alleged part in the attack.

Mayor Menendez attended the meeting accompanied by a bodyguard because he said he had been warned not to address the meeting. Although his address was applauded, he was attacked as he started to leave the building.

Leo Brothers Denied New Trial in Chicago

Chicago, Ill., May 8 (A.P.).—Judge Joseph Sabath refused another trial to Leo V. Brothers, St. Louis gunman, and pronounced today the sentence the jury had fixed upon him for the murder of Alfred Lingle, the crime reporter for the Chicago Tribune.

Brothers, however, will not begin immediately his 14-year term in Joliet Penitentiary. A 60-day stay was allowed to permit his attorneys to perfect an appeal to the State Supreme Court.

NYE GROUP PLANNING ELECTION FRAUD ACT

Committee May Be Ready to Submit Suggestion to Next Congress.

(Copyright, 1931, by United Press.)

The Senate campaign funds investigating committee is formulating a far-reaching and drastic corrupt practices act designed to control expenditures connected with elections for all Federal offices as well as party primaries and national nominating conventions.

Should the committee's plans, which were ascertained yesterday, be translated into legislation during the coming session of Congress, the 1932 national conventions may become unique in American political history in that all of the quiet financing which always accompanies the selection of convention cities would be made public. Heretofore such details have been regarded as something with which the general public was not concerned.

A corps of committee experts is busy compiling all corrupt practices bills introduced in Congress since 1910, and court decisions bearing on the powers of Congress over elections. This data is being analyzed and indexed. Later it will be submitted to recognized authorities on election practices for study preparatory to open hearings before the committee this fall.

Former Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri, who headed the investigation which barred William S. Vare and Frank L. Smith from the Senate after the 1926 elections; Judge William S. Kenyon, who headed another senatorial investigation several years ago; as well as other constitutional lawyers and students of political science are to be asked to give their views.

Every possible effort is to be made to draw up an "ironclad" statute which will not only fix responsibility and prescribe penalties for violation but also run the anticipated court challenge of its validity.

As to the latter factor controversy is expected to center around two questions: The rights of Congress to pass laws to control party primaries and selection of presidential electors.

Bishop James Cannon, jr., of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, has raised the objection that presidential electors are State officials and that Congress has no power over their election. This is in connection with the bishop's defiance of the Senate's effort to make him tell what became of the $65,300 given him by E. C. Jameson, of New York, to carry on anti-Smith activities in 1928.

The committee is hopeful that the Cannon case may eventually bring a Supreme Court ruling on the powers of Congress, possibly in time for legislation during the next session.

While the projected bill is still in the formative stage, it is regarded as certain that it will include provision for some kind of permanent election commission. A joint commission of the Senate and House equipped with a competent corps of attorneys and investigators is under consideration. It would be the duty of this commis-

BRITAIN STANDS PAT ON NAVY REDUCTION

Admiralty Chief Declares Italy and France Must Make Concessions.

Sheffield, England, May 9 (A.P.).—A. V. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty, in a speech to his constituency tonight, gave a plain hint that Great Britain has gone as far as she is prepared to go in concessions to obtain a three-power naval agreement with France and Italy.

"If you are going to get a disarmament which is going to be a real aid to peace, it must be disarmament of all and not one," he declared.

Alexander said he and Arthur Henderson, foreign secretary, had made great efforts to get adhesion to part three of the London Naval Treaty by France and Italy. He asserted they returned from Paris with the understanding that the agreement was complete and that there was no question about it.

"We made the greatest possible concessions that we could," he continued.

"In France today questions have been raised at a somewhat late date. I want to say that there will be no efforts lacking on our part to promote that spirit of good will which is essential to secure progress in this direction. But I also want to say that there is going to be no guarantee of success in progress toward disarmament merely by one country always giving way."

After assuring the audience of his continued efforts toward settlement of the problem and saying he could also speak for the premier and the foreign secretary in this connection, Mr. Alexander concluded:

"We have also got to think of the general security and conditoin of our people."

Fiery Ship's S O S Halts Radio Music

One Man Missing, Another Severely Burned; Flames Are Conquered.

New York, May 8 (A.P.).—An S O S from the oil carrier Ruth Kellogg, reporting that she was on fire 250 miles south of Cape Hatteras, silenced local broadcasting stations from 6:24 p. m. until 6:48 p. m. today. Later messages said the tanker John D. Archbold was standing by the Ruth Kellogg, which proceeded after the flames had been extinguished by the crew.

The Kellogg is owned by the New York & Philippine Steamship Corporation.

Later messages said that after the flames had been put out one man was missing and that another had been so severely burned he was transferred to the Archbold for treatment. Thirty-four men fought three hours to subdue the flames, messages said.

The Ruth Kellogg left Texas City, Tex., May 4 and was due to dock at Warner City, N. J., Monday.

Mrs. Calhoun's Wit Amuses Court in Blackmail Trial

Harris & Ewing.

MRS. CLARENCE C. CALHOUN

Woman Invokes Laughter in Testimony About Alleged Plot.

Mrs. Clarence Crittenden Calhoun, one of the complaining witnesses in the trial of three men and two women on an indictment charging them with conspiring to commit blackmail, matched wits with defense attorneys in a day-long session of the witness stand yesterday.

Her sallies frequently resulted in a wave of laughter sweeping over the courtroom, and occasionally through the jury box. Mrs. Calhoun also reserved for herself the proper moment to recess the court, for promptly at 3:30 she suggested to Justice Jesse Adkins that she was tired and would like a rest. In compliance, and with the consent of defense counsel, the trial was adjourned until Monday morning.

At one point in her testimony, Mrs. Calhoun was asked if she had written

WORLD TRADE GROUP AVOIDS ALL CONFLICT

Debts, Arms, Business Bars to Be Covered in Resolution.

PRESIDENT PROMISES NOTHING SENSATIONAL

British, German Delegates Join in Attack on U. S. Tariff.

By J. B. McDONNELL.

International debts, armaments and trade barriers are to be dealt with in the general resolution to be presented today to the closing session of the sixth biennial congress of the International Chamber of Commerce by its resolutions committee.

Wrought out of widely divergent proposals advanced by conflicting interests and aims and theories, the resolution will be couched in language general enough to permit all the interests represented in the chamber to subscribe to it as an economic guide for the world.

"Don't expect anything sensational," Georges Theunis, of Belgium, retiring president of the chamber, told reporters.

"Don't expect anything sensational," Silas H. Strawn, of Chicago, head of the American group in the chamber and newly elected president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, told them.

Final Draft This Morning.

Just what the resolutions will say will not be determined until they are completed at a meeting of the resolutions committee at 9 o'clock this morning. The committee was unable to complete the work at its meetings yesterday.

Reduction of excessive expenditures for armaments will be suggested, a recommendation in which all can concur, inasmuch as no nation will admit that it is making or shall make excessive expenditures. President Herbert Hoover, in his address of welcome to the first session of the chamber Monday, declared that 5,500,000 men under arms with 20,000,000 more in reserve and an annual expenditure of $5,000,000,000 was too much and Europe should look to reduction of armament as the first step toward her economic relief.

Reconsideration of international debts may be necessary if the economic depression continues and prices continue to decline, is to be another statement of the resolutions committee, it was predicted.

Reparations Not Mentioned.

Although Germany frankly sought to have the question of revision of reparations approved, the matter will not be mentioned in the resolution, in spite of the fact it is, of course, within the scope of international debts.

"Immediate is a very strong word," Mr. Theunis commented in reply to a question about the time which may be specified in the statement on debts. "As I remarked the other day, in response to a question, 'What are twelve years in the life of a nation?' For that matter, what is the life span of any one of us in the life of a nation?"

A general recommendation that trade barriers be lowered is expected to dispose of the question of the protective tariff of the United States, which has been the center of continuous and strong attack in plenary session and group meetings throughout the congress.

Silver Conference Urged.

Recommendations made in other resolutions are expected to be more definite. The resolutions committee approved the resolution urging an international conference to deal with silver. That resolution said:

"The International Chamber of Commerce, realizing the serious consequences of the present silver situation to the economic conditions of the world, considers the convocation during the current year of a conference for the purpose of seeking a solution to the problem, at which all interested bodies may be heard, to be eminently desirable, and urges the national committees to bring the matter to the attention of their respective governments."

The "established conviction" of the chamber that the most-favored nation clause "provides the foundation of a progressive commercial policy" is expressed in another resolution

NEWS of SUBURBAN Washington and the Surrounding States

Appears on Pages 3, 12 and 20 Tod-

which has been approved by a group meeting and is to be submitted by the resolutions committee.

Austro-German Tariff Hit.

There was a fight over this, centering about the Austro-German tariff agreement and the resolution was something of a compromise, inasmuch as it declared that whether exceptions to the clause should be prearranged and admitted "must be examined specifically and without prejudice in relation to the merits of each particular case."

Another resolution approved by the resolutions committee approved futures trading as a means of stabilizing prices. Governmental interference with futures trading was opposed.

The resolutions committee is composed of 22 delegates and the president of the chamber, Mr. Theunis. The United States, France, Germany, Great Britain and Sweden have two members each on the committee, the balance of the membership being composed of a representative for each of the following nations: Australia, Austria, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, Greece, Hungary, Italy, Japan, Netherlands, Norway, Poland and Switzerland.

Attack Hits U. S. Tariff.

Approval of a declaration by the resolutions committee usually is tantamount to approval by the full chamber.

The closing hours of the congress yesterday heard additional attacks on the United States tariff. Henry Bell, of London, a director of Lloyd's Bank; Dr. Edward Hamm, formerly German minister of industry and trade, and W. H. Coates, of England, decried high tariffs.

The tariff, Mr. Bell told an appreciative audience of fellow delegates, represented "the intrusion into economic well-being of the cannon and the machine gun, the high explosive, the poison gas.

Calls Import Duties Blunder.

"Import duties appear to be, in addition, a socialistic blunder," he said. "Some one is empowered by government action—and such action is by no means always just or sensible—to prevent me buying and selling what I want, when I want, in such a sort and quantity and price as I need for the conduct of my business and the provision of my livelihood. I know better than any official what I need. I resent his interference—even if I misjudge I am entitled to my misjudgment.

"Is it too late to change our direction and to make the great experiment of the free exchange of the products of all nations?"

"This Congress," Mr. Coates urged, "should call on all the national committees in high tariff countries to urge their governments to black out the red tariff lights before which trade traffic now halts in helpless immobility, in order that, released from the brakes of tariff taxes, those whose task it is to drive international trade may once again proceed at full speed under the golden lights of caution and the green lights of freedom.

Says English Prices Lower.

"If you doubt that the ordinary consumer bears most of the burden imposed by a tariff, stay three weeks in a tariff country and three weeks in free trade Britain. Where we pay $5 you pay $10. The difference is the tariff tax. It is collected by one class of people from another class.

"Even this great republic, with its wealth of natural resources, today finds itself so linked to the economic unity of the world that a fall in the fortunes of less favored countries, a restriction of their trade, a diminution of their purchasing power, reacts disastrously upon prosperity in this country.

"When tariff excludes goods, it prevents payment of international debts of all kinds. The war international debts are owed by industrial nations. To shut out their offered payments in manufactured goods is unreasonable and ironic."

Canadian Defends Tariff.

Floyd Chalmers, editor of the Toronto, Canada, Financial Post, took up verbal cudgels in defense of the protective tariff, describing it as the "noble experiment" on which his country had embarked "to maintain the standard of living without unduly raising the cost of it."

G. Facci, secretary of the Italian Chamber of Commerce in San Francisco, disagreed, declaring that "we are suffering from the influence of the philosophy that our fortunes must necessarily be built on the crushing of our competitors. We are still the victims of the triumph of property rights over human rights. The best tariff policy we may have is free trade all over the world."

The flexible provision of the American tariff law represents "a distinct forward movement in tariff making and adjustment," Henry D. Sharpe, of Providence, R. I., said. The provision should have an important effect on foreign trade, he said, pointing out that foreign producers may place before the tariff commission facts which would justify lowering rates designed to equalize differences in production costs.

Filene Urges Mass Production.

Edward A. Filene, of Boston, advanced mass production as the best solution of the economic troubles of the world, declaring it to be the most potent force to bring about reduced tariff and other obstacles in the path of the coming together of the nations.

"Scientific mass production, with all that that term implies, is reshaping the business world, and is the most dependable force to bring together the nations of the world in cooperation for the common good and for world peace and prosperity.

"Mass production can not live unless there is an assured and sufficiently large market that can not be cut off over night by political interventions.

Assured Market Necessary.

"Every European nation, therefore, must now do its part to make this assured market large enough or else be unable to finance and sustain the best means of production. The consequences of failure to achieve the best means of production and adequate export are to have still greater numbers of people unemployed, with the accompanying dangers of further rise of radical and revolutionary movements.

"Time will not solve this question. The passage of time will increase the difficulties of dilatory nations in competing successfully in world markets."

Wallace B. Donham, dean of the graduate school of business of Harvard University, declared that Russia was the only country which had solved the problem of unemployment, although he had no sympathy with the major objectives of the Soviet economic system.

Soviet System Praised.

"Soviet Russia passes its man power from the production of capital to the production of goods for immediate use or to the production of [illegible] was [illegible] after [illegible] Precinct [illegible] offered [illegible] bill. Th[illegible] today by [illegible] derson nea[illegible] court near [illegible] been discourteously treated. Mr. Cohen, formerly connected with the Chilean Embassy here, was recognized by Joseph Sachs, of Sweden, presiding officer.

Mr. Cohen sought to offer a resolution calling on the chamber to expand its membership and activities in the chamber. Chile is the only South American nation represented in the chamber. Mr. Sachs ruled the resolution out of order and Mr. Cohen stalked angrily out, at first declaring he would withdraw from the chamber.

Pan-American Groups Invited.

Subsequently, however, the difficulty was ironed out. Mr. Sachs explaining he had no objection to the resolution, but merely had thought it was not a matter for consideration by that particular group sesion. Whatever objections there may have been were waived, however, and Mr. Cohen presented his resolution, which was unanimously adopted.

Group sessions will inaugurate the meeting of the chamber at 9 o'cloc this morning. The closing plenary session of the chamber is to be called to order at 11 o'clock. The resolutions will make its report, and at noon the convention will hear an address by Franz Von Mendelssohn, of Germany, incoming president of the chamber.

Mr. Mendelssohn's address will be broadcast by radio from Berlin. After that, retiring President Theunis will make his final address and the sixth session of the chamber will end.

Babbitt Type Is Missing From World's Chamber

Business Men, Suave Statesmen, Take Place of Sinclair Lewis' 'Go Getter' in Maneuvering for Plans to Benefit Commerce.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

George Follansbee Babbitt is missing from the scene at the International Chamber of Commerce meeting. The American business men, who are in attendance, are of a different stamp altogether. They are suave, cultured cosmopolites—men who are at home in any part of the world. They are thus, perhaps, because they have interests in every part of the world.

The Babbitt that Sinclair Lewis created was not a bad fellow. He was a bit too much of a go-getter, maybe, and was overfond of slogans, but that was about all that might legitimately be held against him. Nevertheless, the word Babbitt has since come to connote a much less likeable type—a sort of crude town booster.

The Americans at the International Chamber of Commerce meeting are "go-getters," too. They have to be to stay out in front. Also they are boosters. But they are different in that they don't make so much noise about it.

As has ben said, theyare cosmopolites. Yet there is a difference between them and the businessmen from Europe. In the case of the Europeans, it is difficult to tell whether they are business men or statesmen. The reason is not hard to explain. Likely as not, coming from countries where business and government are so closely allied, they frequently are both statesmen and businessmen.

The American representatives, however, are essentially businessmen, and they lok and act the part.

Not that theyare not capable of statesmanship. For example, Silas Strawn, of Chicago, head of the American delegation, was sent to China by the American Government a few years ago, and did a masterful job in trying to untangle China's extraterritoriality problem.

Mr. Strawn is the type who, in a private conversation, will yell "Hooey!" at some proposed plan, and who then will go before a formal gathering and shatter the plan in words as velvety as that one is rought.

Pretty much of the same type are the other American delegates—Julius H. Barnes, chairman of the board of the Chamber of Commerce, who made his money in wheat; Thomas Chadbourne, the heavy-set New York banker and lawyer; Melvin A. Traylor, the hard-hitting Chicago banker; Willis H. Booth, the strapping big vice president of the Guaranty Trust Co., of New York; Lewis E. Pierson, president of the Irving Trust Co., of New York, another big fellow; John H. Fahey, the Boston newspaper publisher, who wears a little goatee, and the square-jawed Ed Hurley, of Chicago, a manufacturer, who once was head of the Shipping Board.

A formidable array of business giants, that, one on which it would be difficult indeed to put over anything.

Americans Hold Ground.

So far the Americans have more than held their own with their friends from across the seas. More than one plan which visiting delegations hoped to have the meeting adopt has been scrapped or modified.

The British, for example, had hoped to have the delegates adopt a resolution to make "strong and effective" the Rome maritime ports convention. This convention is designed to remove restrictions on shipping, and to give all nations an even break in sending ships into foreign harbors. The convention would be especially helpful to Great Britain, whose tramp ships cover the globe.

Politely and neatly, the American shipping men at the meeting frustrated the British attempt to have adopted. Here is why: The Cunard Line, the big British oceap service, does a heavy business in summer taking tourists back and forth across the Atlantic. In the winter, however, there comes a slump. To offset this slump somewhat, the Cunard Line runs passenger ships between American ports and Havana, Cuba, in the winter season..

American Lines Affected.

Naturally, this affects the business of the American passenger lines, which are after the Cuban business. If the American lines and the British line were under the same expense, it would not be quite so bad; but, as is well known, the cost of building an American ship and the cost of running an American ship are very much higher than the cost of building and operating a British ship. It is higher because the American standard of living is higher.

At the next session of Congress an attempt will be made to legislate against the Cunard competition. A bill will be introduced to place a head tax—10 per cent of the fare, say—on each passenger who uses a Cunarder in traveling to Cuba. This would even matters up somewhat.

If the American delegation to the International Chamber of Commerce meeting had approved the British resolution with regard to the Rome Maritime convention, it would have, in effect, disapproved in advance the principle involved in the bill which is to be introduced in Congress.

STATE HOLDS SEVEN IN FLORIDA FLOGGING

Six Men and Woman Under Indictment After Man Is Abducted.

Clearwater, Fla., May 8 (A.P.).—Six men and a woman were under arrest tonight on indictments returned by the Pinellas County grand jury today charging kidnaping in the abduction and whipping of R. W. Oxford, St. Petersburg, Fla., last February 23.

Those named in the indictments are Paul Nolen, St. Petersburg grocer; B. B. Bachelder, St. Petersburg carpenter; Robert Letsinger, proprietor of a St. Petersburg automobile wrecking yard; Wilbur C. Mills, Tampa salesman; Benny Pardo and Sam Cicarello, Tampa mechanics, and Mrs. Alice Henderson Woods, of Tampa. The woman was charged with being a decoy for the gang that abducted Oxford.

Nolen, Bachelder and Letsinger, who were taken into custody late today, entered pleas of not guilty and were released on $3,000 bond each. The other four, who previously had been arrested, notified the court through their attorney that they would be present next Tuesday when the cases are to be set for trial on the criminal docket.

Cicarello, Pardo and Mills are under $4,000 bond each, while Mrs. Wood is under $500 bond.

Nolen, Bachelder and Letsinger were arrested some time ago and charged with employing the gang that whipped Oxford. They subsequently were released at a preliminary hearing before Justice Casey Thigpen, of St. Petersburg, because the State failed to introduce evidence.

Mills previously had been charged with being one of the gang that whipped Oxford. He had been arrested also as a member of a gang that flogged H. R. Jamison, of Tarpon Springs, July 9, 1929, but charges in the latter case were dropped at a recent preliminary hearing.

Pardo and Cicarello were charged with being members of the Oxford flogging party.

The flogging of Oxford and subsequent developments, which authorities said "indicated the existence of a gang which operated in a businesslike fashion, whipping anyone pointed out upon the payment of a sufficient sum," have been under investigation by Pinellas County and St. Petersburg officers for several months.

The grand jury, which was assisted in its investigation by Acting State Attorney Dewey A. Dye, of Bradenton, indicated it would investigate the slaying last December of Dr. Archie McCallister, of Tarpon Springs. Dr. McCallister was shot down by an unidentified assailant who escaped. No motive for the assassination ever was established.

Claiming that his wife threw a pitcher of milk at him with excellent aim, and then threw other missiles with less accuracy, Frank Witthuhn, who lives at the United States Soldiers' Home, yesterday asked the District Supreme Court to award him a limited divorce.

He says that his wife compelled him to leave her December 15, 1926, after 23 years of married life. The wife is now in New York State.

Harris Is Confident Robinson Will Win

Georgian Sure Arkansan Will Be Reelected as Senate Leader.

Atlanta, Ga., May 8 (A.P.).—United States Senator William J. Harris, of Georgia, said in a statement here today that reports from Washington in opposition on the part of Democratic senators to Senator Je T. Rbinson, f Arkansas, as party leader, were "without foundation in fact."

Senator Harris said Senator Robinson would be reelected Democratic Senate leader without opposition. The Georgia senator is a member of the Democratic steering committee of the Senate.

Coincidently, Senator Walter F. George, of Georgia, said in an address here today, the whole country is awaiting the convening of the next session of Congress with interest because of the possibility the Democratic party will make an effort to organize bothhouses.

Women's Air Unit Will Receive Flag

Mrs. Howard, Relative of George Washington, to Make Presentation.

(Associated Press.)

The Betsy Ross Corps, a national patriotic organization of women fliers, today will receive an American flag from Mrs Eleanor Washington Howard, one of the last members of the first President's family born at Mount Vernon.

Miss Marjorie Stinson, aviatrix and sister of Eddie Stinson, well-known pilot and aircraft manufacturer, will receive the flag on behalf of the women fliers. The ceremony will be held at Memorial Continental Hall.

The Betsy Ross Corps, including in its membership Ruth Elder, Florence Barnes, Gladys O'Donnell, May Haislip and other women fliers, was organized to assist in national defense during emergencies by piloting planes from factories to flying fields and by flying transport and hospital planes.

Closer Repairs Check On Airplanes Ordered

(Associated Press.)

On the heels of agreement for repair and upkeep of thirty-five Fokker ships, the Commerce Department yesterday announced new regulations covering the repair of licensed aircraft. The instructions will require a closer check on repair work, and closer scrutiny of the ability of operators of repair stations to do proper work.

Formerly stations were approved on the basis of arrangements made with manufacturers authorizing the station to repair the particular models of aircraft built by such factories, provided the department inspection found the station's facilities satisfactory.

Atlantic Flier Jailed In Wife's Alimony Suit

New York, May 8 (A.P.).—Roger Q. Williams, who flew across the Atlantic to Rome in 1929, was taken into custody today on a civil order of arrest obtained by his wife, Carrie T. Williams, in connection with her suit for a separation, $250 a week alimony and $5,000 counsel fees.

Pending efforts by his attorney to raise the $2,500 bail, the aviator was lodged in the New York County Jail.

Satire of British Royalty Protested in Bordoni Play

Chorus, "A H— of a King and a H— of a Queen," Starts Action by English Consul Through Philadelphia Theatrical Censor.

Philadelphia, May 8 (U.P.).—A satirical sketch about the royal family of England in a musical show here resulted late today in a protest being made by Frederic Watson, British Consul General to Philadelphia, to the Rev. Dr. Frederick Poole, theatrical censor of Philadelphia.

The sketch is in the musical play, "One More Night," in which the French comedienne Irene Bordoni is starring at the Forest Theater.

Miss Bordoni plays the part of a king, and wears a beard. Eric Blore plays the queen. A caricature of the Prince of Wales is contained in a third character, "A Whale of a Prince," while Prince George may be seen as the "Duke of Cork."

A song, which is taken up with gusto by a chorus, ends: "A h—— of a king and a h—— of a queen."

Galen Bogue, producer, insists the sketch makes good clean fun of the ritual of court presentation.

Dr. Poole admitted today the matter had been brought to his attention and that efforts were being made to tone down or possibly delete the sketch from the production.

But, according to Bogue, Dr. Poole informed him that if the "offense" to Great Britain and its ruling house were not eliminated immediately, a formal protest would be made to the British Embassy in Washington.

Questioned about the offensive skit, Consul General Watson declined to make any comment today.

"I am afraid I am not in any position, at this moment, to say anything about the matter," he said.

DO-X BEGINS ITS HOP TO BRAZILIAN COAST

of direct news from the airship. It was pointed out that she has wireless equipment and communication can be made with the Berlin office while the plane is in the air.

It is estimated that approximately 30 hours would be required for the huge flying boat to make the hop from the west coast to Fernando Noronha.

It is possible the officers of the DO-X might continue on to Natal, Brazil, without making the stop at Fernando Noronha.

For several days it had been reported the plane, which flew from Rio de Oro to Bolama, Portuguese Guinea, last Sunday, was refueling and soon would be ready for the longest jump of its career.

Earlier today it was reported the DO-X had been taxied across the Jeba Delta from Bolama to Bubaque yesterday.

The DO-X has been preparing for its flight to South America for some time, but several mishaps have delayed its take-off.

While anchored off Lisbon last November a fire swept through one of her great wings, causing considerable damage. Repairs were made and the plane moved on to Las Palmas, in the Canary Islands, January 31.

The understructure was somewhat damaged when smashed by a wave there February 3. This also was repaired.

Previously the ship had made test flights, visiting Holland, England and France.

The DO-X, known as "the world's greatest flying machine," is 130 feet long and has a wing spread of 160 feet. She was built to carry 100 passengers, although only a skeleton crew is with her now. She has twelve engines of 500 horsepower each.

Tribute to Be Paid To Mother Jones

Room in Which Noted Labor Leader Died Will Be Opened to Public.

Silver Spring, Md., May 8 (U.P.).—The plain, dimly-lighted room in the isolated farm house where Mother Jones passed her last days, will be opened to the public on Sunday when Mother's Day tributes will be paid to the memory of the militant labor leader.

It is planned to light 100 candles on the huge birthday cake presented to Mother Jones May 1, 1930. Flowers from various parts of the country have been placed around the room.

Upon the black and lavender finished door a placard reads: "Sacred to the memory of Mother Jones." It is black with lavender letters. Underneath hangs a basket of flowers.

The room was opened for the first time since Mother Jones' death on May 1, the 101st anniversary of her birth in Ireland.

POTOMAC WILL AID ALEXANDRIA VOTERS

Plans for Ballot on Form of City Government Are to Be Pushed.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Announcement was made last night that the movement inaugurated by the Independent Voters Club, of Alexandria, for a vote of the people to determine the form of government to be in effect in the city, had not been abandoned, as had been reported, but will be continued and that the residents of that newly annexed territory known as Potomac will cooperate with them in the circulation of petitions asking for a vote.

The rumor was to the effect that the residents of that district had started an independent move, owing to the failure on the part of city council to elect a resident of that section to fill the vacancy in council caused by the resignation of Mayor Pierce, but that was denied last night and the statement made that the movements will be combined.

The Independent Voters Club had circulated petitions, which required the signatures of 1,200 voters, to call an election, and had secured the signers, but a number of the petition fell into the hands of non-sympathizers and were not circulated, or if circulated, not returned to the proper authorities of the club for consideration, thereby causing the delay in their presentation to Judge McCarthy.

The present plan is to place 200 petitions on the street, to be handled and returned to the club officers within a specified time, regardless of the number of signers.

The Alexandria School Board, at a meeting on Thursday night, announced the selection of Prof. W. J. Young, of the State Teachers College, Fredericksburg, as the speaker at the graduation exercises of both the Alexandria and George Mason High Schools on June 11 and 12, next.

Boothe, the generous offer was accepted and the clerk to the board, Gilbert J. Cox, jr., was instruced to write Mrs. Broaddus, a letter of thanks and acceptance.

Lieut. Col. Thomas J. Dickson, U. S. A., retired, was granted permission to give a free lecture to the pupils of the schools, particularly high and Jefferson schools, within the month, in the Maury School Auditorium. The talk will be on the part played by Virginians in the World War.

A number of matters of routine work were discussed and disposed of by the board.

At that time, several hundred small seedlings were gathered from the nearby forests and have since been cultivated by members of the Community Center. Lyon Park, much of which is located in a wooded area, already abounds in native dogwood trees. The proceeds of the sale will be applied to the Community House building fund.

Officials of the United State Parole Board said yesterday telegrams had been sent to Kansas, Oklahoma and Missouri authorities to learn whether Frank De Mayo, now serving a term in the Atlanta Penitentiary for prohibition violation, is wanted on any other charge, before ordering his release on parole.

De Mayo had been granted a parole effective May 7, but he was still held yesterday pending a check-up on a report that there were other charges against him. The Parole Board expected a decision in the matter sometime yesterday. De Mayo, in 1929 and 1930, received sentences at Topeka, Tulsa and Kansas City totaling three years.

NEW DRIVE PLANNED BY LUTHERAN CHURCH

Rasmussen Congregation to Celebrate Today Winning of Second Place.

Luther Place Memorial Church failed to win first honors in the membership drive for 1930-31 in the United Lutheran Church in America. This honor fell to the Kountze Memorial Lutheran Church, of Omaha, Nebr. Luther Place, however, came second, with 411 new members; but it was first in the percentage of gain over previous years.

Among 3,000 Lutheran congregations, this is indeed a coveted honor, which the congregation proposes to properly celebrate tomorrow morning. More than that, they are laying plans for a bigger drive this year, when they hope to get in more than 411 new members, and to secure first place among all the Lutheran churches throughout the land.

Congratulations have been and still are pouring in on the pastor, Dr. Carl C. Rasmussen, as the result of his first year's work, which closed with Easter, is being told throughout the Luthern Church. Dr. Rasmussen's success in Washington has lifted him into the very front rank of the ministers of his church. If they tolerated bishops, they might make him an archbishop.

Many ministers, and laymen, too, here in Washington have shared the thought of Bishop Freeman, of the Episcopal diocese of Washington, who said the other day that the experience at Luther Place is particularly heartening because it demonstrates that the day of the downtown church is not passing, and therefore that the old historic churches can continue to grow and prosper if their congregations have the vision to put on challenging programs.

The membership recruiting program of the Luther Place congregation during the current year is already under way. The first post-Easter group will be received on Sunday, May 24, and promises to be of a size comparing favorably with the groups received from month to month last year. The church council announces classes will be received at the end of June and at frequent intervals thereafter throughout the year.

50,000 EXPECTED AT MILITARY MASS

Students Mission Crusade to Feature Ascension Day Rite at Catholic U.

Thursday is Ascension Day in the church calendar and it will be celebrated by the Roman Catholics with a military field mass in the stadium of the Catholic University, which will be attended by an assemblage estimated at 50,000. Last year that number attended the celebration held in Baltimore.

One of the features of the celebration will be the participation of the Students Mission Crusade of the diocese. It is estimated that there will be 22,000 crusaders from Washington and 8,000 from Baltimore in attendance.

The ceremonies on Thursday will begin with a religious procession at 9:30 o'clock, which will be witnessed by many prelates; 14 members of the Diplomatic Corps representing all parts of the world; distinguished national leaders; Army, Navy, and Marine officers, and thousands of others. It is believed that the university stadium will be taxed practically to its capacity.

Besides Archbishop Curley, it is expected that the Most Rev. John T. McNicholas, archbishop of Cincinnati; the Right Rev. John G. Murray, bishop of Portland in Maine; the Right Rev. John M. McNamara, auxiliary bishop of Baltimore, and the Right Rev. Thomas J. Shahan, rector emeritus of the Catholic University, will be in the reviewing stand.

There will be 55 reserved boxes for the especially invited guests of international and national fame. A section of the stadium has been set aside for the parking of 700 automobiles of invited guests.

Maj. Thomas J. McNicholas, who had charge of the physical arrangements of the demonstration in Baltimore last year, has charge of the arrangements this year. His preparations have evoked the praise of men who have spent long years in the United States Army and Navy. They say the major's plans are well-nigh perfect.

Catholic Radio Hour.

A special observance of Mother's Day is being sponsored by the Washington Catholic Radio Hour, which is broadcast every Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock from the Church of the Immaculate Conception, of which the Rev. Francis J. Hurney is pastor, through Station WOL. The service will take place at the Grotto of Our Lady of Lourdes, in the church, at the 5 o'clock service tomorrow afternoon.

The ceremony opens with the May procession, which marches around the church, followed by Miss Yocum's rendition of the "Lourdes Hymn." After this the mothers are consecrated to the Lady of Lourdes by their children. The May queen, Miss Ann Loveless, then gives the dedication, after which the mothers consecrate their children.

The noted Paulist speaker, the Rev. Joseph I. Malloy, will deliver the address at this service. Father Hurney will preside and will be celebrant at benediction.

The soloists, under the direction of Prof. Harry Wheaton Howard and assisted by the Immaculate Conception choir, will be Miss Florence Yocum and Frederick Nolan.

During this month (May), which is especially dedicated to the mother of God, there is a 12:15 noonday mass every week day at the grotto in the church.

A Golden Jubilee.

An event of much interest to Catholics in Washington was the golden jubilee wedding aniversary of the parents of Dr. Peter Guilday, of Catholic University. It took place at their home in Chester, Pa., and Dr. Guilday celebrated the mass at the Church of the Resurection. At its conclusion he read a cablegram of congratulation from the Holy Father, sent to Dr. Guilday by Cardinal Pacelli, the papal secretary of state; also a letter from Cardinal Dougherty and other messages.

Dr. Guilday is one of the leading historians of the country, and one of the foresmost members of the Catholic University faculty.

Old-fashioned revival scenes are in evidence night after night, with many conversions and others being filled with the spirit, as in the early church. Some have been healed as the evangelist has prayed for their recovery. In short, a revival where happiness and enthusiasm is in the air and is gaining new recruits every service.

The revival is attracting the attention of a number of ministers and church workers of Washington and other places who have heard the preaching of Mrs. Pennington and the gospel songs.

She will speak Sunday night at 7:30 and every night except Saturday at 7:45 at the Masonic Auditorium. Another Christian healing service for the sick of every creed and faith will be held on Thursday at 7:45 p. m. Sentence Sermons

By the REV. MEADE BOLTON MacBRYDE
(Rector of Grace Episcopal Church)

Mother

SOME writer has said that the world is governed more by ideals than by ideas, that people are influenced more by living concrete models than by principles of virtue.

The model held up to the Christian world is not the Amazon glorying in her martial deeds, nor the Spartan emphasizing physical perfection; not the goddess of impure love like Venus, nor the goddess of imperial will like Juno, but, from the very dawn of Christianity, the Model has been the MOTHER—the Madonna, pillowing on her breast the child. In the pages of Holy Scripture, we find a long procession of noble women who were distinguished in the capacity of Motherhood, culminating in Mary, the Mother of our Lord, of whom it was rightly said, "Blessed art thou among women."

One of the widespread and prevalent tendencies of today is for the younger generation to look upon parental authority as irksome, and parental advice as being obsolete. It is not an age when the young have any too much deference for their elders, and their opinions, and the old proverb is reversed to read: "Parents obey your children."

Let this Mother's Day be one not merely of outward observance, but of inward resolution as well. If you are wearing the white carnation of Memory—God grant it may be a memory of satisfaction of having been in all respects what a child should be to its Mother. Or if it be the red carnation of Privilege, then see to it that you are considerate, and tender and loving to her to whom you owe your very life.

PRESBYTERIANS QUIZ DR. COOPER TONIGHT

Capital Pastors Invited to Hear Confession of Faith Before Club.

Having run the gantlet of the Baptists, Dr. William Knowles Cooper is now to be haled before the Presbyterians to make a confession of his faith and tell why he believes what he believes.

This inquisition has been arranged by the Presbyterian Club of George Washington University. It will be held tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the Ingleside Mansion, 1818 Newton street northwest. Wilbur LaRoe, jr., will conduct the examination, as in the first instance.

Pastors of Washington Presbyterian churches have been invited as special guests. Before the examination there will be a reception, when members of the club will receive informally.

Music Will Follow.

After Dr. Cooper has retired from the witness stand a musical entertainment will be given, including Glee Club numbers, a saxophone selection by Oscar Brandt and violin solos by Miss Florence Basim. Light refreshments will then be served.

Two weeks ago Dr. Cooper and Mr. LaRoe first raised this question of the former's religious beliefs in a meeting held by the Vaughn Bible Class of Calvary Baptist Church. The editor of The Post's Churgh Page at that time received the following friendly note from Dr. Cooper:

"Your hearty cooperation in preparing the splendid article for Saturday's Post brought out an attendance of the Vaughn Class on Sunday morning about 150 in excess of their usual attendance. Mr. Everett, of Woodward & Lothrop, said that he thought the program was one of the most interesting he had ever witnessed in Calvary Baptist Church. Mr. LaRoe did an admirable piece of work and I tried to meet the situation adequately.

"But your gracious and sympathetic article, which contained no single misstatement (which is quite unusual in the hurried preparation of material for the daily press), is genuinely appreciated, not only by the writer, but by the members and friends of Calvary Baptist Church.

"With all good wishes, sincerely yours, WM. KNOWLES COOPER."

Missionary to Slaves.

If Mr. LaRoe should happen to pull a copy of the Shorter Catechism on Dr. Cooper, he might light some far-reaching fires. It is related of an old dominie who was a missionary to the slaves in the far long ago, that he tried that expedient on a class that had been under the tutelage of an old Methodist class leader. His class was a most interesting one of small children. One of them was on the witness stand.

"What is your name?" asked the dominie.

"Little Ben, sir."

"Who made you?"

"God."

"What did he make you out of?"

"Biscuits."

"What did he make you for?"

"To eat biscuits and 'lasses, and to wait on de white folks."

Here was fertile field for instruction! Even now some of the colored people in the deep South call biscuits "Heaven dust."—D. R. B.

SUSPICION WEAKENS IN THORNE MURDER

Facts Seem to Show Slain Man Was Buried After Jailing of Teegarden.

Although it is understood that Prince Georges police have deferred questioning Cline Teegarden in connection with the death of Marine Private Emanuel Thorne until they can arrest a woman companion, facts have recently come to light which seem to show that the Marine was not buried until after Teegarden was jailed on another charge.

Vincent Selbicky, on whose property the body was found, has said that he walked over the location of the grave about February 4 and that the man was not there then.

Teegarden was arrested on February 3. E. G. Fisher, a woodcutter of Greater Capitol Heights, was also near the spot between the 1st and the 21st of February and said he saw nothing of the grave.

Woman Still at Large.

Police are said to know the name of Teegarden's woman companion, and are looking for her. Several times, it is said, they have sent men out to arrest her, but she failed to appear in her usual haunts. She is known to be in the city, however, and is said to visit in Marylan don occasions.

Mr. Fisher told a Post reporter yesterday that he worked at woodcutting near where the body was found two hours or more every day for the first three weeks of February. He was engaged in cutting up a large tree about 30 feet from the spot and he did not notice the body, although the feet were exposed when it was found.

Selbicky's testimony at the inquest brought out the fact that he visited his house about February 4 to make some repairs. At this time he walked around his fence, looking for holes, and did not see the grave. The body was found within 2 feet of the fence on the inside.

Conviction of Teegarden.

Teegarden was arrested on February 3, and was charged with robbery on February 6. He was tried for the hold-up of another man and sentenced to five years. Shortly after Thorne's body was found he was returned to the District Jail, supposedly for questioning in connection with the murder. It is understood, however, that he has not yet been quizzed.

Thorne disappeared from the Marine Barracks in Washington on January 16, and his body was not found until April 4.

Constable Earl Blackwell has been working on the theory that the man was killed on March 16, during a fight in Greater Capitol Heights which was reported to police. Other policemen, however, have held that Thorpe was within a day or so of his disappearance.

HURLEY REASSURES AIR "WAR" SECTORS

understood, came from the Maryland and Massachusetts National Guard units. War Department officials said, however, that both these units would be represented in the maneuvers.

The War Department's reply to these criticisms is that "the purpose of an Air Corps is to fly." Officials point out that military aviation is still a pioneer field. Ground movements and artillery control may be learned from a book, they say, but the handling of large air units is still in its laboratory stage and experiments must be made.

Although admitting the possibility of accidents when 672 planes assemble, officers hold that it is a risk that must be taken to gain the proper training.

Criticism also has been directed against the maneuvers on the ground that a sky full of roaring planes will disturb hospitals and ill people. Mr. Davison, speaking in Boston recently, said:

"If you plan to go to bed on the night of the 24th (when the simulated raid takes place there) you will be just wasting your time."

Boston citizens, alarmed at the thought of a sleepless night, protested to the War Department. Officials there said Secretary Davison's remarks were made in jest. No bombs will be exploded, they said, reassuringly; no machine guns will be fired, and the maneuvers will be over by 11 p. m.

COMMITTEE NAMED TO AID BRIDGE PLAY

Miss Charlotte Schmidt Is Honorary Chairman of Post Contest.

Announcement was made yesterday by promoters of the first annual bridge tournament of Washington players, sponsored by The Washington Post, of the reception committee which will aid in conducting the big event.

Miss Charlotte Schmidt, known as the patron saint of all Washington players because of her long experience at the game and her popularity with its devotees, has been named honorary chairman. Active members comprise A. P. Stockvis, chairman; Mrs. Charles Keene, Mrs. Marion Barre, Mrs. H. R. F. Brett, Mrs. Marguerite E. Lord, Mrs. A. E. Stephan, Mrs. George Brown-Ell, Mrs. Eric Cissell, Miss Lucille Claire Smith and Frank B. Lord.

All of the members are experienced bridge players, many of them teachers, and in addition to receiving the guests at the new Shoreham Hotel, at the several sessions included in the program, they will aid in directing the players to the sections, tables and seats assigned to them, furnish information regarding the play and the movement of the pairs and of the duplicate boards and otherwise facilitate the progress of the play.

Will Explain Scoring System.

Players are expected to assemble at 2 o'clock sharp for the afternoon sessions and at 8 o'clock for the evening sessions. Immediately thereafter, at each event, R. E. Needham, manager of the tournament, will deliver a brief talk explaining the methods of the play, including instructions to be followed in scoring. This is one of the most important features to be closely observed.

The rules which will govern all phases of the tournament are those adopted by the American Bridge League and which are in use at all major tournaments. Any questions that arise during the play will be referred to the tournament manager and decided in accordance with these laws.

These regulations provide that when a score card is completed by the North player, who keeps the record, it must be approved by the East player, turned face down on the table, a cross mark made on the back to show that it has been used, and left for the official score keeper to collect. This official is likely to be a very busy man. He has to make two entries on the summary sheet for each score card and later compare all of the entries to determine the relative standing of the pairs and teams on each hand.

It will not be possible for him to enter scores correctly unless the score cards are properly filled out, especially as to the numbers of both pairs at each table, the number of the board which contains the hand played, and the net score.

Procedure for Moves Is Given.

When the hands assigned to a table have been played, and it is announced that a move is to be made the procedure will be as follows:

In pair games all East and West players move to the next higher numbered table. The boards that have just been played are moved by the North player to the next lower numbered table. The North and South players do not move, and they play the boards in numerical order throughout the entire session.

In team games, the boards and East and West players both move toward table No. 1, the players going two tables at a time, and the boards only one table. Again, North and South players do not move.

The process is really simple and requires only an explanation and an illustration to make it easily comprehended.

Officers said that on Wednesday Crowley, seeking a hideaway from the police hunting him for the Hirsch murder, phoned the Dunne girl and told her to "get out" of her Ninetieth street apartment to make room for "a regular girl." Billie Dunne, angered, told several persons at the dance hall that night. Word got to police, who set the trap which resulted in the captures late yesterday, following the firing of hundreds of shots and the use of axes and tear bombs.

Crowley Moved on Stretcher.

Crowley was moved on a stretcher late today from Bellevue Hospital to Mineola, the jurisdiction in which he must stand trial. Still on the stretcher, he was booked.

Duringer, arraigned late today, stood mute. Asked if he wanted a lawyer, he said "No." The pleading was adjourned until Monday.

Three bullets were taken from Crowley's body early today, one from each arm and another from an ankle. The bullet wound in the ankle appeared to have been made before yesterday's shooting.

The Walsh girl, who is the principal witness of the State in the Hirsch shooting, was removed, under guard, to a private home after physicians expressed fear she might suffer a nervous beakdown.

Girl's Companions Held.

Robert Le Clair and Mrs. Mildred Armstrong, known also as Mildred Moors, companions of the Brannen girl on the night she was slain, appeared before the Bronx grand jury today. It was the first time they had met since their arrest following the slaying.

Le Clair said: "Don't worry, dearie, nothing will happen to us now that they got him." He said he meant Duringer.

Bail of $10,000 each was fixed for them as material witnesses.

As detectives arrived at the Nassau County Courthouse in Mineola with Crowley, a throng mostly of women, swarmed around the ambulance. It was necessary to send a riot call for police reserves.

The ride had made Crowley ill and the district attorney arraigned him in the car, booking the gunman formally for first degree murder. Then the ambulance sped away to a hospital, where a guard of four detectives was placed over the prisoner.

Seeks to Plead Guilty.

He will be returned to jail after his wounds have been treated.

"I want to plead guilty," Crowley told the prosecutor. He seemed disappointed when told the law did not permit a guilty plea in a first degree case. "Why can't I get this over with if I want to?" he demanded.

"I suppose you know conviction means the chair for you?" the district attorney queried. "Well, what of it?" he whimpered.

Crowley tonight told detectives that Patrolman Hirsch's gun, which he took from the slain officer, was "no good." "He pulled the trigger twice," they quoted the confessed slayer as saying. "It didn't go off. Otherwise he might have finished me there."

COURT FANS AMUSED BY MRS. CALHOUN

a letter to W. Clark Noble, one of the defendants, in which she praised his work. Her reply convulsed the court. It was, "Well, you know what a woman will do to encourage a man to work."

At another point in her testimony she sought permission to address a question to the justice. "Does a poor little woman like me have to submit to being picked to pieces by each of those great lawyers?" Justice Adkins, amid much laughter, replied that they had the right to question her at length, but he "hoped they wouldn't avail themselves of the opportunity."

The witness' testimony was replete with witty remarks. Richard L. Merrick, the only defense attorney to question Mrs. Calhoun, frequently permitted the witness to go beyond the scope of his questions. He spent several hours delving into plans for the Women's Universal Alliance and the Mothers' Memorial.

In connection with changing the name of the original group, Mrs. Calhoun said "she hoped to get some men into the organization so they could steady the boat." She intimated that the women members had need "of masculine strength." The first organization was closed to male members.

Besides Mr. Noble, his wife, Emile Noble, James F. Bird, Stephen A. Armstrong, jr., and Mrs. Anna Hillenbrand are defendants. The indictment naming them charges that they attempted to obtain $100,000 from the Calhouns.

The great length of Mrs. Calhoun's testimony furnished one of the few battles between opposing counsel. The court finally permitted Mrs. Calhoun to testify about a trip on the yacht of George Gordon Bennett, of her whirlwind courtship and marriage to one of her husbands.

In answer to a question about her name by Mr. Merrick, Mrs. Calhoun declared: "I'm afraid it would take the transcriber some time to write it out. It's Margaret Rose Julia Cornelia O'Donovan Breax Simonds Guimere Calhoun."

In response to further inquiry from Mr. Merrick, she said she was married first in 1896 to Andrew Simonds, of Charleston, S. C.; in 1907 to Arthur Guimere, of Princeton, N. J., and in 1918 to Capt. Calhoun. She said her father's name was O'Donovan, but that she took the name of her stepfather, Col. Breax.

A sally between Mr. Merrick and Mrs. Calhoun about the length of her name was the occasion for another burst of laughter.

In discussing the alleged blackmail plot, she told of a conference she had with Mrs. Hillenbrand in July, 1929, when she said the long series of threats started.

She claimed that Mrs. Hillenbrand declared that "we have information now which would put you behind the bars."

"Mrs. Hillenbrand said she possessed information about my private life and character which, if made public, would shake the Capital," Mrs. Calhoun testified. "She also said she had damaging information about my husband."

Irvin Goldstein, assistant United States attorney, told the jury that the Government would prove the defendants conspired to blackmail the Calhouns in sums ranging from $30,000 to $300,000. He said that threats had been overheard by Samuel Hardy, a Department of Justice agent, who posed as an attorney of the Calhouns.

In an opening statement Charles W. Arth, of defense counsel, denied any intimation of blackmail and contended that the arrests arose from the efforts of the defendants to collect compensation from the Calhouns.

sion to make continuous check-ups and investigations of all elections to Federal office and to report to Congress or to Government prosecutors in cases where violations of law were indicated.

Simultaneously with its work on new legislation the committee plans to carry on the Cannon inquiry despite challenge of its authority by the bishop and his secretary, Miss Ada L. Burroughs.

Chairman Gerald P. Nye (Republican), of North Dakota, yesterday outlined the committee's position on that inquiry, taking issue with the contention that there had been compliance with the present law by listing $17,000 of the $65,300 in a report.

"This February report has no legal standing," Nye said. "It was filed after the expiration of the final filing date. * * * The law expressly provides that anyone connected with a political committee shall report to the treasurer of that committee the receipt of any contribution within five days after it is received. The committee's information indicates that Miss Burroughs knew nothing of the remittances from Jameson to Bishop Cannon until after she made her January report.

"Unwillingness to make that admission under oath apparently was responsible for her refusal to testify. It is possible she may change her mind if she reaches the conclusion that she is being sacrificed to protect some one else."

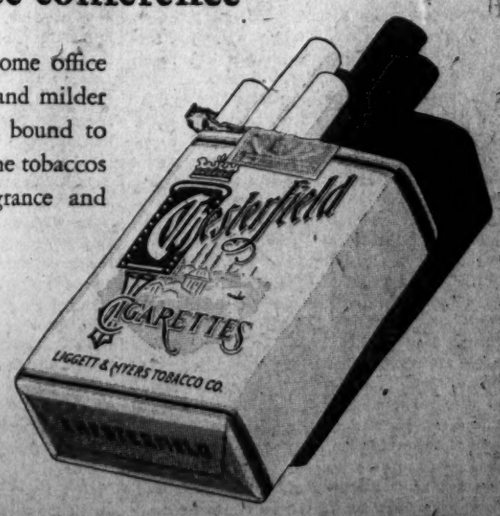
Knee-deep in a swirling salmon stream—or even deeper in some office problem—you relish the taste of a good cigarette. And the better and milder the tobaccos, the better the taste and the milder the smoke—that's bound to follow. What you taste in Chesterfield is the flavor and aroma of the tobaccos themselves. Chesterfield's blend and cross-blend gives you a fragrance and delicacy you'll find in no other cigarette.



FOR NINETEEN years, our Research Department has kept intimate touch with every new development of Science that could be applied to the manufacture of cigarettes. During this period there has been no development of tested value or importance to the smoker which we have not incorporated into the making of Chesterfield cigarettes.

MR. SNELL ON THE TARIFF.

Representative Bertrand H. Snell's answer to the assault of foreign industrialists and international bankers upon the American tariff, and everything else American, is especially significant because Mr. Snell has been widely misquoted recently as clamoring for reduction of the tariff. It is well that the gentleman from New York has made clear his attitude. He has been accused of sacrificing Republican principle in an effort to appease the insurgents and thus win the Speakership of the House. In the face of his statement that charge is shown to be false.

"We must keep the tariff protection we have," said Representative Snell, "so as to maintain our own market for our own producers to as great an extent as possible." No one of sound mind could find any weakening of his convictions as to the protective policy in that.

There has been no change in the Republican attitude toward the tariff, and there will be none. Even Julius H. Barnes hastened to deny that he had any intention of recommending that Congress revise the tariff downward. What he had in mind were adjustments by the Tariff Commission. No one is campaigning for a higher tariff at this time. But those who have the interests of the United States at heart demand that the American market be reserved primarily for American enterprise, which means maintenance of the existing tariff.

Senator Cordell Hull has just made himself ludicrous by pointing to the widespread unemployment and the decline in production, and then demanding removal of the floodgates against cheap foreign goods to restore prosperity. In his devotion to an outworn theory he would pull down upon the United States the greatest disaster it ever experienced. In sharp contrast to Mr. Hull's free trade attitude Representative Snell discusses the effect of removal of the protective tariff:

> Our mechanics, or just so many of them, would be thrown out of work. The number of our unemployed would be tremendously increased. Our farmers think they are about ruined now, but what would they think if they were deprived of the American market as well as having the foreign market ruined by dumped Russian wheat?
> And just how long would the resulting situation be of benefit to Europe, or the rest of the world? We would buy a little more imported necessities for a brief space, and then we would be so flat that we would have to stop importing altogether, luxuries as well as necessities. So that instead of leading the world back to prosperity, as I think we will be able to do now in a comparatively short time, we would lead the world further down into the slough of despond we are now crossing.

Foreign bankers and industrialists are deluded by the hope that by pushing America deeper into the depression they might pull themselves out on its ruins. But what of Democratic and insurgent politicians, who are willing to sacrifice the foundations upon which prosperity in this country has been built? Their efforts to pull down the pillars which support the American standard of living are even less intelligent than the foreign propaganda.

DISARMING POLICEMEN.

The American Law Institute is wrestling with a proposal to impose additional restrictions upon officers in enforcement of the law. Profs. William E. Mikell and Edwin R. Keedy have drawn up an elaborate formula showing just when, according to their reasoning, an officer is justified in using his pistol and when he is not. Their aim is to minimize needless fatalities in the enforcement of law; but George W. Wickersham, chairman of the Law Enforcement Commission, and Newton D. Baker, a member of that commission, fear that the proposed restrictions would result only in weakening law enforcement.

In most States officers are justified in killing or wounding persons charged with a felony if such action becomes necessary to effect an arrest. The two professors would hedge this law about with five different provisions. Under this arrangement it might be necessary for an arresting officer to stop and look in his book to find out whether he would be justified in shooting the felon who resisted him. Then he would have to make sure that there was no other possible way of bringing about the arrest, and to remove all doubt in the mind of the felon that an officer of the law is after him. When the officer had made certain that he was acting within his rights he would probably be lying on the ground with a few bullet holes through his body.

One reason for the lax enforcement of law in these days of organized crime is that officers are at a disadvantage in dealing with desperate characters. Officers must remain within definite legal bounds. The bandit and the gangster know no law. They shoot to kill. It would seem quite out of place for an organization interested in the enforcement of law to make any move to tie the hands of peace officers charged with the apprehension of desperate criminals.

It can not be denied that officers sometimes abuse the prerogatives which the law gives them. But that is no argument for hampering all officers with further restrictions. Better officers and not a more cumbersome law is needed. Most cases in which citizens accused of trivial offenses are abused result from lack of training or other disqualifications on the part of officers. This could not be remedied by making the law more intricate. On the other hand, additional legal obstacles to arrest would probably allow many hardened criminals to slip through the fingers of the police. The murder of a policeman this week in New York and the resulting battle with a desperate bandit is not calculated to promote the cause of disarming policemen.

INSURGENTS IN A HUDDLE.

Insurgents who met in Washington shortly after Congress adjourned and gave an effective demonstration of their impotency seem to be getting ready for another political huddle to decide what they can do to annoy President Hoover in 1932. Senator Brookhart has boldly predicted to the farmers of Iowa that Mr. Hoover can not be reelected, and that the party ought to decide upon another candidate. Presumably he has himself in mind. But the other insurgents are more wary. They make no secret of their desire to replace President Hoover by a "progressive" Republican. But who shall that favored one be?

Senator Borah might be somewhat embarrassed in opposing the candidate for whom he stumped the country in 1928. The Republican party unquestionably would be embarrassed if its adherents were asked to vote for a man who led the assault upon the protective tariff and whose panacea for revival of prosperity is a bounty to stimulate production of wheat. Senator Norris? If nominated, he might follow his own precedent and go directly into the Democratic camp. Gov. Pinchot is itching for the nomination, but the situation of the party is hardly desperate enough for it to consider nominating a man who could not carry his own State.

No one knows better than the insurgents themselves that for the Republican party to nominate one of their number would be a certain way to suicide. Such minutemen as Gov. Pinchot or Senator Brookhart might undertake anything, but the more shrewd insurgents shrink from the humiliation of a crushing defeat. The insurgents were not bold enough to form a third party, although they have repudiated the party to which they give lip service at election time. They will probably not have the backbone to organize a definite move against the nomination of President Hoover. But like rats working in the night they will content themselves with gnawing at his record in the White House.

The 1932 campaign may bring a test for insurgency. If the so-called independent Republicans desert President Hoover, whose nomination is assured, it may be necessary for the Republican party to rid itself of them. If they do support the President after their continuous efforts to discredit him in the eyes of the people, they will be betraying the insurgent cause, just as they betrayed the Republican cause.

A BUSINESS COUNSELOR.

Added to the executive, congressional and commercial championship of the American protective tariff system before the International Chamber of Commerce was the support contributed by Wallace Brett Donham, dean of the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration. He believes that the future of this country lies in the development of its home markets. He told the chamber in plenary session that "our problem of stabilization at home is impossible except through our protected home markets." Dean Donham saw no chance of destroying the stability of our social group by reducing the standard of living, but he warned his cosmopolitan audience that if this country did reduce its standard of living it would become an even more formidable competitor in the world markets.

While Mr. Donham speaks today as a Harvard dean, his judgment has a background of years of business and bank training. He has pronounced views upon the present condition of world affairs, and his ideas have just been put into book form under the title of "Business Adrift." In this work the author speaks frankly and courageously of the dangers in the present situation, which, while not the result entirely of recent or sudden happenings, does call for prompt action to relieve economic difficulties.

"The cure for unemployment is work." That might be considered the keynote of the book. Instability and lack of security felt by capital and labor alike are the things that must be remedied. "We should seek constantly," Dean Donham says, "that ever-changing equation between work, security and leisure which gives steady employment and meets not only material but immaterial wants in a world which is always getting better control over nature. That is the one hope for a great civilization."

Mr. Donham does not believe that extensive development of foreign trade can be relied upon as a panacea for American business; that way lies intense international competition, plant overdevelopment and eventual warfare. The more intensive cultivation of the great home market he finds much more important, with a readjustment of agricultural production that would eventually eliminate the surplus that must be exported. Maintenance of high wages in this country, even with shorter hours and increasing security of labor, he includes in his program for increasing consumption at home, to which he adds the hope of lowered costs through technological progress and a lessening of the severity of competitive processes.

The book is by no means a plea for the isolation of the United States from the world of trade, but it does strongly emphasize the advantage of doing what is entirely within home control in securing income and purchasing power to the millions of American workers.

The logic of this stalwart protectionist is made more striking by the fact that he was once a believer in free trade. By study and practical test he became convinced that he was wrong as a free trader. So he got right. He is one of the few college professors in the United States who have dropped theory for facts.

SAFE SCHOOL BUILDINGS.

The people of Washington have probably been unduly alarmed by reports that school buildings are being erected without proper regard for safety. Nevertheless, the recent accidents called attention to the need for greater care in building and more thorough inspection. There is nothing to indicate that the schools under construction will not become both safe and substantial buildings. But the evidence of careless construction practices, which endanger the lives of workmen, can not be denied.

Engineer Commissioner John C. Gotwals considers the matter of such importance that he has ordered inspection of all plans and construction work on municipal buildings by Inspector John W. Oehmann. Heretofore inspection of such buildings has been under the exclusive control of the municipal architect. It is difficult to understand why responsibility for safe building practices was thus divided. Certainly it is as essential to make certain that public buildings are safely constructed as it is to supervise private building projects. Commissioner Gotwals is to be commended for bringing all inspection work under the supervision of the department which is best equipped to handle it.

Dr. Oswald Spengler says that machinery will bring mankind to a tragic ending. The machine, of course, has been developed chiefly in America, therefore this country is responsible for the downfall of humanity. It's surprising that Dr. Spengler was not invited to the International Chamber of Commerce sessions.

Now science comes forth with an electric instrument which stimulates the brain. In spite of the deficit, the Government might find it profitable to invest in 96 of them.

The marriage rate has fallen off sharply since the depression began, but Reno hasn't heard about the depression yet.

CALVIN COOLIDGE SAYS:

Northampton, Mass., May 8.—By common consent Sunday will be observed as Mother's Day. Because we are so constituted that we have to think and act serially, it becomes necessary to dedicate special occasions for the emphasis of many important subjects which nevertheless influence us all the time. So we set apart a day for the contemplation of motherhood on which we can give some appropriate expression to the debt we all owe to the greatest sacrifice and devotion in human experience.

There is always danger that we shall not look at values in their proper proportions. What is common and obvious is often none the less precious. Among all the earthly blessings which have been bestowed upon us it is difficult to find one that compares with motherhood. It is hard to imagine a greater ambition than to be what our mothers would wish us to be.

These sentiments which we all entertain are of little value unless they are translated into action. The day can be well observed by making some contribution for maternity centers or for the general relief of mothers to some of the various associations engaged in these charities. None of us can give as much as our mothers gave to us.

HEALTH AND POLITICS

From the New York Times.

Friction between public health agencies and voluntary organizations, attributable to politics and "unscrupulous and incompetent jobholders," has retarded public health work in the United States, according to Dr. Hugh S. Cumming, surgeon general of the United States Public Health Service, who in a volume published today appeals for wider public support to improve health conditions in this country. The book, "Biology in Human Affairs," is a symposium by leading scientists on problems dealing with public welfare. It will be placed in general distribution tomorrow by Whittlesey House as the May choice of the Scientific Book Club.

Dr. Cumming appeals for a unified campaign by all health agencies and the public against disease, explaining that between 30,000,000 and 40,000,000 Americans, chiefly in rural areas, are living under conditions which are likely to breed serious diseases. He asks extension of public health service to every corner of the United States to drive out "the menace of ill health."

"Health is the birthright of every citizen, and insofar as he has been deprived of health by the neglect of his community and his government to provide public health service he has been cheated of his birthright," Dr. Cumming asserts. "No one questions the right of every child to an education and to the protection of the law. Relatively few, however, have visualized the importance of starting out in life with healthy bodies and minds and the responsibility of civilization in securing them for every citizen, insofar as may be possible.

"Much could be accomplished if really adequate courses in physical sciences and public and personal health topics could be introduced into the normal schools. A teacher convinced by personal demonstration in the laboratory and on field excursions would be a more inspiring instructor than one who mechanically follows a textbook in which he or she has no real interest."

Economic and social conditions have an "immense" significance to health, Dr. Cumming adds. He says that because of the efficiency of modern public health work the United States never again will be menaced by "such devastating plagues as the bubonic plague, Asiatic cholera or yellow fever." Typhoid fever has been reduced "from a proportion of 7 to 1," he adds. Dr. Cumming lists among the diseases against which renewed activity is necessary influenza and meningitis as offering particularly difficult problems to health officials.

So very easily is wrought?
Why is it at the very first

Nor would I judge another's acts

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Flapper Daughter.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

MY DEAR LOUISE—So far as I know, you have no ambition to be the belle of the ball and the envy of all beholders, but I assume that you have a normal girl's normal desire to be liked by creatures in pants.

If my assumption is correct, it may be that I can lend you a helping hand.

Your sex isn't as truthful or as "square" as men are. I could give you the proof, but it isn't necessary.

Anyway, it is nothing to quarrel about, for neither truth-telling nor honesty is natural to our race. We must learn our ethics as we learn to walk and make speech.

In learning to speak the truth and play fair, men had a long start. They were competing with one another and swopping with one another long ages before women were conceded to be more than household utensils.

In other words, their sex got a lot of practice in being ethical before women knew what it was all about.

Of course, having devised and learned to practice these necessary rules and regulations, they told themselves they were doing it solely because of their inherent decency; but as a matter of fact, they played the game according to Hoyle because they were afraid of being socked on the jaw if they didn't.

When women got out of the harem and ceased to be cattle, they had to live in a man-made world by man-made rules—many of which seemed foolish.

They had no inherited tendency to respect good sportsmanship; they did not absorb masculine standards of fairness in infancy; and they felt no obligation to respect rules made for them by mere males.

Moreover, they had the advantage of knowing they could be unfair—that is, break man's rules—without having their teeth knocked out.

That, my dear, explains the disregard of rules and the tendency to hide behind a fib so common to your sex. For long ages, tears, subtlety and deceit were your only weapons.

But men—though their own respect for rules is largely a fear of the rod—still measure women by the ideal standard prepared for themselves, and adore you most when you have the most manly virtues.

Fooling a man is nothing to brag about. Any nit-wit with vacant doll eyes can do it. And "breaking a date" is no more commendable than any other form of lying.

A girl can do such things and still hold the affection of lads who get their spending money from dad; but she won't walk down the aisle with a regular guy who is destined to boss an industry or a nation. Love, DAD.

In Secretary Mellon's speech at the banker's luncheon on Tuesday there was half-concealed a strong warning to them, as the financiers of industry, that their tendency to depress wage scales and the standard of living of the American people will be indefensible if persisted in.

The able Secretary of the Treasury is an expert in matters of industry. He and his allies have been large investors and enterprisers in a number of the most important producing industries of the Nation. No one should know better than he that whatever reduces the purchasing and consuming power of the general population has its sure and depressing repercussion upon those producing industries.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

California Takes to Heart Mr. Chesterton's Criticism of Ugly American Towns.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Isn't it marvelous how much our English visitors can find out about us in a few weeks? And isn't it equally wonderful that, like our own buzzards, they so regularly light on the "dead" carcasses?

G. K. Chesterton stages the latest analysis of our ills, and, dear me, how it must have tried his aesthetic and moral senses to have had to sojourn for those few weeks in the noisome "barbarism" of American civilization!

Although out here in California, where we have gorgeous gardens as a setting for numberless vine-covered homes he has had an eye only for those garish, bare, buildings of some windswept prairie town; down South, in the land of old-fashioned hospitality and courtesy, he only discovers that Tennessee folk have the habit of settling arguments with guns, while his survey of prohibition enables him to broadcast the startling news that our high school girls attend parties in order to drink raw alcohol!

What a pity we can not engage G. K.'s detective services for a few years! Then, indeed, would we "see ourselves as others see us!" But though possibly humiliating for us, it would be the end of him, for how could such a high-strung, sensitive soul exist for so long amid such terrible, heart-breaking conditions?

Let us hope, therefore, that his brief visit, brief but probably successful from the financial viewpoint, may not have minimized his powers of detecting and denouncing evils, real or imaginary, for we are quite sure from observation as well as hearsay that in Britain and in Europe generally there are also some social blots on the fair face of that section of the world.

But as they are well thatched with the moss of ancient custom and revered tradition it is possible that so far their presence has escaped his eagle eye. The fact that while the Englishman honors his legalized bootlegger by giving him a seat in the house of lords, we are inclined to put ours in jail does, of course, make a difference!

But after all one would be inclined to think more highly of G. K. and our other numerous critics if they could see our roses as well as advertise our weeds!

Philippine Commissioner Osias Urges Immediate Independence of the Islands.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I was very much pleased to read your editorial in The Post for May 2 on the "Fate of the Philippines." I especially appreciate your statement that senators and members of the House of Representatives should give the Philippine independence question "attention during their vacation months," and that "Congress ought not longer to delay its decision . . ."

I desire to avail myself of this opportunity to state that both the existing political parties in the islands are in favor of immediate and complete independence and that all live elements of our population are for it. We are conscious of the obligations and responsibilities that go with independence and its economic consequences. You are absolutely right in making these statements:

"Each year the economic ties between the islands and the United States become stronger and consequently more difficult to break. At the same time development of the islands is held in check by the uncertainty of their future. An uncertain policy can only aggravate the present unsatisfactory situation."

The uncertain and anomalous status of our country is working havoc upon our economic life and is unsatisfactory to Americans and Filipinos alike. Authorized spokesmen of the Filipinos have admitted that a certain economic dislocation will follow the grant of independence, but they have also maintained that the Philippines can stand the shock better if independence is granted soon instead of delaying it.

We believe sincerely that after the approval of the treaties at the Washington Conference and at the London Conference, it is opportune to decide once for all the fate of the Philippines. Since America expects the world to accord her sincerity in the peace treaties to which she is a signatory, it is but proper that equal sincerity be recognized on the part of other powers which are signatories to treaties renouncing war as an instrument of national policy. The grant of independence to the Philippines would remove doubt and suspicion of, and increase faith and confidence in America throughout the Orient. It would be one more contribution of the people and Government of the United States to movements calculated to insure world peace.

CAMILO OSIAS,
Resident Commissioner from the Philippines.

Money Question Is at the Root of the Business Depression.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The cause of the trouble which is called business depression is the chaos which reigns in the realm of fiscal affairs and finance. It is the "money" question in one form or another. But money in the modern sense does not consist of coins and currency. It consists of a vast complex of incorporeal legal relations which go under the designation of credit and debt. Until the banks and the courts which are the fiscal and legal agencies for the reduction of debts function effectively for this purpose we will not have order in public and private economy in this United States or anywhere in the world.

COURTAULD RESCUE PARTY NEARS BASE

Only 35 Miles to Go, Trip Is Expected to Consume Nearly Week.

Copenhagen, Denmark, May 8 (A.P.).—After a cold winter spent in an isolated meteorological station on Greenland ice cap, Augustine Courtauld, 27-year-old British scientist, tonight was on his way back to his expedition's base at Sermelik Fjord with his rescuers.

While airplane searches were being organized to remove the young explorer from his marooned igloo, a group of his companions, led by H. G. Watkins, chief of the British Arctic air route expedition, located Courtauld, who had volunteered to observe meteorological conditions alone on the ice cap.

Behind a dog sledge the three rescuers and Courtauld are slowly making their way across the icy wastes toward the base camp, which is 35 miles inland. Their tedious journey is expected to require nearly a week.

News of the rescue was brought from the interior yesterday by Capt. Albin Ahrenberg, noted Swedish flier, who had flown with provisions to the meteorological station in an effort to rescue the stranded Englishman.

Ahrenberg arrived at the deserted igloo a few hours after Watkins' party. Tracks in the snow were followed until the aviator sighted the small group returning toward their base. The aviators dropped food to the party and then returned to the base to report that Courtauld was walking behind the sledge and appeared to be in good health.

Alarm over the safety of the scientist, who is a son of S. A. Courtauld, wealthy head of a silk firm, spread a few weeks ago when Watkins was unable to find the ice-cap station. He returned to his headquarters, but set forth again when it was feared Courtauld would face a shortage of supplies.

Other relief expeditions were organized and Maj. Sydney Cotton was on his way to Iceland from England to join in the search with another plane.

Ship Confiscation Fought by Owner

Seizure of British Craft Was Illegal, Supreme Court Is Informed.

(Associated Press.)

James W. Merkle, owner of the British vessel Francis T., seized by the Coast Guard September 29, 1929, off the New Jersey coast, yesterday filed with the Supreme Court a petition asking it to prevent the confiscation of the vessel by the United States Government.

Claiming that the vessel was within 12 miles of shore and had just completed a transfer of a cargo of liquor to another ship, the Government insisted there had been a violation of the tariff act, which warranted the confiscation of the vessel.

The owner insisted that when seized the vessel was 14 miles off Barnegat lightship, outside the customs jurisdiction of the United States, and challenged the right of the Coast Guard to board the vessel or use any of the evidence obtained by unlawful search.

Agricultural Exports Increase During March

(Associated Press.)

A general increase in agricultural exports during March as compared with February was announced yesterday by the Agriculture Department. Larger shipments of all commodities except animal products, lard and tobacco raised the index figure to 87 per cent of the prewar level, in contrast to 71 the previous month and 82 in March, 1930.

Increased cotton exports were said to be the result of larger purchases by Japan and Germany. Large shipments of boxed apples to continental Europe helped raise the fruit export index to the second highest month's figure on record, or 391 per cent of prewar.

PRESIDENCY THOUGHT ASSURED FOR BRIAND

ations for an economic treaty by saying English newspapers credited him with a great diplomatic victory.

"France Is Figure of Peace."

In conclusion, he declared:

"France has become a figure of peace. She is ready to collaborate with all nations. To follow this policy will not diminish her prestige."

The foreign minister received an ovation when he descended from the rostrum, the moderates and radicals rising in a body to applaud him. It was commented in the corridors of the chamber that he took a less aggressive attitude against the Austro-German scheme than had been anticipated, but that his speech was sufficiently strong prior to announcing his candidacy for the presidency.

This announcement is anticipated tomorrow or Monday, when moderate and radical groups call to ask him to make his intention official.

Former Premier Edward Herriot followed Briand and drew applause even from his opponents. He condemned the Austro-German customs union, but advocated promotion of closer relations between France and Germany. He declared frank and loyal explanations between the two countries were imperative.

May Seek Briand's Post.

M. Herriot concluded by saying he would vote for the government because in the debate France's very existence was at stake.

The former premier's speech was interpreted in the lobbies as amounting to an announcement he was a candidate to succeed Briand as foreign minister if the latter is elected President.

Herriot protested against criticism of the British government. He paid tribute to the foresight and loyalty of Arthur Henderson, British foreign minister, and added:

"There can be no naval peace without agreement with England and the United States, nor peace on land without agreement between France and Germany."

A fierce attack on Briand by the right leader, M. Marin, brought from the foreign minister a reminder that Marin was minister of pensions in the same cabinet in which he was foreign minister. Briand asked why he did not resign if he thought his (Briand's) foreign policy criminal.

Feelys in City In Flying Trip From Bolivia

Envoy and Wife to Visit Northern New York; Childs Is Here.

CLOSE upon the heels of rumors which would bring to Washington Don Luis Abelli to replace Senor Diez de Medina as Minister of Bolivia, there slips into town Mr. Edward F. Feely, minister to that country, who, with Mrs. Feely, has just made a flying trip to the Capital, having come on Wednesday night only to leave again last night for New York. They will return here in about ten days for a brief visit.

Making the trip through Southern waters on the Santa Clara, the Minister and Mrs. Feely hope to "make hay while the sun shines" and pay visits to several cities in New York State where the minister's relatives live and, if possible, to spend a few days in California which Mrs. Feely calls "home." From New York City they will leave early next week for Rochester, the family home of Mr. Feely, and will visit in other places in northern New York before their return to Washington. Their stay in the United States will be about six weeks.

Although somewhat "wedded" to South America, where they have lived for some years, the Minister and Mrs. Feely entertain the secret hope that some day they may establish a home in Washington. Appointed envoy to Bolivia about a year ago, Mr. Feely had several years service with the foreign staff of the Department of State.

He was attached to the embassy staff in Mexico City and also was with the foreign service in Argentina. In the interim, between their residence in Mexico City and Mrs. Freely's acceptance of the post at La Paz they spent some time in China. Mr. Feely's devotion to governmental service has not been confined entirely to the Department of State as he formerly was with the Department of Commerce.

South America has done its share in bringing to the Capital this week notable "servants" of the Government. The Ambassador to Chile, Mr. William S. Culbertson, whose expected arrival has been heralded for several days, also came up on the Santa Clara and will spent some time here where his daughter, Jane, is attending Miss Madeira's School. Contrary to original plans Mrs. Culbertson did not make the journey but remained at the embassy in Santiago.

Another flying visitor to Washington yesterday was Mr. Prescott Childs, consul at Montevideo, who was named to the Uruguay post exactly one year ago today. He is a Massachusetts man and one of the popular bachelors of the service. Here only for a few hours on Thursday he will leave today for New York but will return to Washington on Monday.

Secretary Wilbur At Yale University.

The Secretary of the Interior and Mrs. Ray Lyman Wilbur left last night for New Haven, Conn., where they will spend the week-end as guests of the President of Yale University and Mrs. Angell. Senator and Mrs. Arthur H. Vandenberg, of Grand Rapids, Mich., who will spend several months in the Orient this spring, reached Manila Tuesday.

Princess Cantacuzene, of Sarasota, Fla., and Washington, and granddaughter of President Grant, sailed yesterday for Europe.

Mrs. Oscar W. Underwood, wife of the late senator from Alabama, who arrived several days ago from Europe, has returned to her home in Washington.

Mrs. John Daingerfield Hooe and Mrs. Mary McCauley sailed yesterday from New York for Europe. They will travel extensively in France, returning to Washington in several months.

Mr. C. H. Van Der Leeuw, delegate to the International Chamber of Commerce Convention from Holland, entertained at tea yesterday afternoon at the Carlton, where he is while in Washington.

YOUR NAME — WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

By HARRY A. DEFERRARI, Ph. D.

THE personal name "Abraham" is of Hebrew origin, and means the "father of a multitude." It was especially popular as a baptismal name in England in the thirteenth century. Since that was the time when personal names were becoming hereditary, it is not surprising that "Abraham" should now be rather common as an English family name. There are many instances of this name in the Hundred Rolls (1273). In France and the Netherlands the popularity of "Abraham" was due to the devotion to St. Abraham of Auvergne. This name was introduced into Ireland by the Anglo-Normans, but it never became common in that country. The French form of this name is spelled the same as in English. Its Italian equivalent is "Abramo." As a German family name it appears as "Abraham," "Abram," "Abrahams," "Abrams," "Abrahamsohn," "Abrahamson" and "Brahms." As is well known, the various forms of this name are common among Jewish families. The personal and family name, "Abram," has always been very much confused with "Abraham." However, "Abram" has a different Hebrew source, and in England it is sometimes of Anglo Saxon origin.

The family name "Livingston" (also spelled "Livingstone") is of Scottish-English origin. It frequently indicates an original place of residence in the parish called Livingstone in County Linlithgow, Scotland. The place-name "Livingstone," means "Loefing's Stone," the word "stone" in this case having the meaning of "castle." The personal name "Loefing" means "the son of the beloved man," so "Livingstone" may be translated, "the castle of the son of the beloved man." However, there is evidence that in some cases "Livingstone" is of purely English origin, and is to be translated "the estate of Leofing." In such cases the ending was originally "-tun" instead of "-stone."

TWo events of interest to the sporting world will be etherized today. A description of the Preakness Stakes will be described by Clem McCarthy over the WJZ network, including WBAL, at 4:30 o'clock. This feature will not be heard locally.

The long-waited match between William Tilden and Vincent Richards for the professional tennis championship (their first meeting in five years) will be broadcast by Ted Husing (WMAL, 9 p. m.)

Ceremonies in connection with the presentation of the annual award of the American Institute of Chemists to the Secretary of Treasury, Andrew Mellon and his brother, R. B. Mellon, will be transmitted (WRC, 1 p. m.)

When the new Institute of Human Relations at Yale University is officially opened this afternoon, the ceremonies will be broadcast (WRC, 2 p. m.) Among the speakers are Ray Lyman Wilbur, Secretary of the Interior; Wilbur Cross, Governor of Connecticut; James Rowland Angell, president of Yale University and J. E. Vincent, of the Rockefeller Institute.

A third special program will be the addresses by Ada Louise Comstock, president of Radcliffe College, and Judge Thomas D. Thatcher, solicitor general of the United States, from the banquet in connection with the annual convention of the American Law Institute (WRC, 10 p. m.)

A SONG entitled "Mother, I Love You," written by Lew Conrad and dedicated to the mothers of America, will be introduced by him this morning (WRC, 8:15 a. m.) He will repeat the number in the Varieties program (WRC, 7:15 p. m.)

A recital by a four-organ ensemble will be broadcast this afternoon (WMAL, 3 o'clock). The organs range in size and pitch from the three-manual concert instrument, two minuette types, for moderate sized homes, and a portable reed organ.

SOME of the advantages gained, including greater distance, by Station WJSV with the installation of its new 10,000 watt transmitter are lost in certain sections of the city because there is more interference than previously. It is almost impossible to tune out WHEC, Rochester, and WKBW, Buffalo, during the evening hours. Two other stations mar WJSV's signal from time to time.

The voice heard leading the singing in the Marine Band programs is that of Capt. Taylor Branson, leader. These programs always open with the singing of the words to the marine song, "Halls of Montezuma."

The accomplishments of the London naval conference and progress of negotiations between France and Italy looking toward naval limitation will be discussed by Secretary of State Stimson tonight (WMAL, 8:30 p. m.

Demonstrating the pleasure he derives from untutored piano playing, Ernest Lubitsch, motion picture director will be heard during the Keys to Happiness broadcast (WRC, 10:30 a. m.)

The Federal Radio Commission has taken a firm stand against the use of any radio facilities in aiding rum runners with the revocation of the amateur license of Charles Andres, jr., of New Orleans, over the recommendation for clemency by a Federal radio supervisor.

Evidence was that Department of Justice agents, accompanied by a radio inspector, arrested Andres on April 11 and seized the radio transmitter he was using as part of a raid made in connection with liquor smuggling into the United States.

Andres had been assigned the call letters W5NE. This amateur license was not due to expire until March 20, 1932.

A VISITOR made the mistake of commenting, in the presence of John S. Young last week, that announcers must have an easy time. John had just finished telling the world about music in a Russian program and without saying a word, handed to the visitor the program continuity on which appeared the following names: Rachmaninoff, Rojdesivensky, Bachmetieff, Turchaninoff, Pratopopoff, Bogayavlensky, Glazounov and Ippolitov-Ivanov.

Jay Interprets the MODE

How about motoring this summer in this coat, scarf and beret? (Asks Dah-ray).

New York, May 8.

PEOPLE are beginning to get quite a different idea of summer wear, and a far more practical idea, too. The fashion magazines, the fashion designers, and L'elegante herself are no longer afraid to admit that there are at least many evenings, if not many days, during any summer anywhere that are chilly. Loath as we are to give up the pastel shades and transparent nothingness of summer apparel, we nevertheless find many and expensive garments summery in effect only, and made of soft and heavier weight materials.

In fact if I must admit it even though I shouldn't, a practical summer coat like the one illustrated today can be and is worn far into the autumn. These summer coats are made in delightful light weight woollen mixtures, in kashas and tweeds, and I defy the hottest day to not require one for motor trips say, or traveling, especially by water.

Then when the chiller breaths of autumn blow, as we know they will, though right this minute they are farthest from our thoughts, we add sweaters and scarfs, and our charming summer coat continues to do much service!

* * * *

How would you like to make a smart summer coat like the one illustrated today? I don't care whether you have ever sewn or not, I give you my word of honor that you can make this coat from my illustrated leaflet telling you how to do it. And it only takes three yards of material, what's more, and the sending of a stamped self-addressed envelope to the Dare department of The Washington Post for the illustrated directions telling you exactly how to cut and sew this material into a coat. And here's a secret—The coat, although designed by myself, was made up for me in Paris by one of the famous coutouriers, and the scarf and little beret were made to go with it. It was my traveling coat for the Ile de France, and you know you have to be some smart on that boat! So send for your leaflet right away, and make yourself a new summer, autumn and all of the time coat!

* * * *

The new belt is often split in two or three parts, each part closing separately, either in back or in front. There are belts which are wider in front than in back—and vice versa—and do you know that you can have your belt closing in the back or a little to one side of the front or even right on a side. Belt buckles are of two varieties—those that show the actual fastening together of the belt and those made of some semi-precious material or composition in the form of a large plaque concealing the joining of the two ends of the belt. Belts button together or fasten in any number of odd ways.

* * * *

Have you sent in your stamped, self-addressed envelope yet to the Dare department of the Washington Post for the blouse leaflet? You'd better hurry, because there are only a very few left!

* * * *

And let us remind you again now to look for the weekly Dare fashion letter in The Sunday Washington Post. You'll enjoy it.

Au revoir!

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"TAURUS."

IF May 9 is your birthday the best hours for you on this date are from 7:45 a. m. to 10 a. m., from 1:15 p. m. to 3:30 p. m. and from 6:15 p. m. to 8 p. m. The danger hours are from 10:30 a. m. to noon and from 4 p. m. to 5:45 p. m.

May 9, according to the astrological signs presages an atmosphere of lassitude and lethargy. No work should be assayed that demands close attention and keen concentration. Do what is necessary and be satisfied. After sunset, conditions favor lovers and sweethearts.

A child born on this May 9 will be winsome and winning. It will work hard at its studies, but a poor memory will handicap it. As maturity approaches, it will reveal a strong, high-principled character, with a keen sense of justice and a good fund of common sense.

Born on May 9, many envy you because of what they call "your luck." They forget that if you show versatility, adaptability and shrewdness, these virtues have only been acquired after a long struggle with an inner self that craved self-indulgence and the way of least resistance. Only by superhuman efforts have you been able to metamorphise your character and have been enabled to substitute for the weaknesses of yesterday the virtues of today. You have overcome the handicaps of youth, but it has not diminished your charm or given you a swollen head.

In your own effective, but quiet, way, your are self-confident, but never blatantly so. You possess much much courage, and never acknowledge defeat. As a matter of fact, you are at your best when your back is to the wall. Your views are broad and tolerant; you are in no way wedded to tradition or controlled by convention.

Your ambition is unlimited, but it would be well for you not to overtax your strength or powers of endurance. It is advisable to remember that the human engine needs a periodical overhauling. If this policy be pursued, rapid depreciation can be averted. Your home life promises a good share of solid happiness, and all the family circle will both love and respect you.

Successful people born May 9:

William J. Duane, lawyer and politician.

James P. Espy, meteorologist.

John Brougham, actor.

Abby Sage Richardson, author.

Edward Weston, electrician and inventor.

Sir James Matthew Barrie, novelist.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

Why Call Her Bad?

DEAR Miss McDonald: I want you to answer a question very truthfully. It concerns a very dear woman of whom I am very fond. In fact she is my sister-in-law, my brother's wife. She is in her early thirties, an adorable girl, three children to whom she gives the fondest care. A devoted wife, studying the smallest want and need of her husband, keeping a perfect home. Yet in my heart I feel that she is—and must be—bad.

Here is the reason. Every so often, about once a year, she is obsessed with the idea of going out with another man. Not any particular man. Each time it is some one different. They go to a show and to dinner at some road house or restaurant, another show in the evening, then home. She tells me if she did not she would go mad. When she returns she is like a new woman, carefree and cheery. If it were me I would just hate myself, but she says: "Well, that's over," and tackles the housecleaning. I can not understand her. She is really lovely. Can do anything with my kids, who are so stubborn and self-willed. Never cross, an ideal woman, never kidding or in any way inviting men. Yet every year she takes this day off to spend with a man. Always fine men. Everything all right if she were single. But everything all wrong since she happens to be married.

I asked her if they ever made love to her. She said, "Why of course they make love to me. I go just to hear someone make love to me." Then she cuts the man dead and never sees him again. Once she told me that if her husband even occasionally paid her a compliment she would be content. But he is a very peculiar person, and I know never does.

However, leaving him and his rights as a husband out of it—could she deliberately spend a day being made love to if she were at heart a nice woman? I hate to call her bad, but she really must be—isn't she? And what could be done to get her out of what may become a fatal habit? If my brother ever heard of it, it would mean disgrace for her and all of us.

NEEDA.

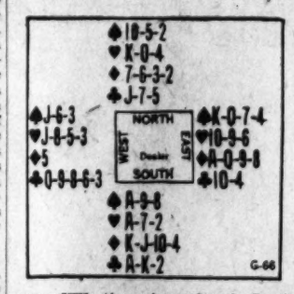
Why call her "bad?" She does one day a year what most women do quite casually in the course of every dinner party they attend. She listens to a lot of very pleasant-sounding words relative to the brightness of her eyes, the luster of her matchless hair, the curve of her smile and so forth. And all the time she is thinking "now if only this were sweet old John or Tom or Larry (or whatever name her dumb husband answers to) it would be great." She gets from those words what every woman has a right to cherish and preserve—her confidence in her charms.

Far from being an injured husband your brother has an injured wife. She has given and he has taken. On her investment of youth and love and devotion she has reaped no dividends. Whatever she may do to reassure herself and rehabilitate her self-esteem is his responsibility, for he has failed as a husband to an incomparable woman. It is a crime that such a woman is reduced to such extremity, but unhappily it is just such women who are reduced to desperation by rudeness and neglect.

As a remedy I would suggest more social life, more men! If that be treason, you have my address!

WORK ON BRIDGE

(This article is intended for the Auction and Contract Bridge beginner.)



WITH the above hand South would be the Declarer playing one No Trump at Auction and three No Trumps at Contract.

West's opening lead would be his fourth best Club, (the Six) and although Declarer has three Clubs in dummy, it might be advantageous for him to play second hand high. West's Six lead presumably was his fourth best, consequently he has three higher Clubs in his own hand. Six from eleven leaves five and Declarer has four Clubs higher than the Six, so East has one. Which one is it? If the Queen, North can play the Seven, force the Queen from East, and North and South can take three Clubs; but is it probable that East has the Queen?

One thing is certain; West has the Eight, because with Queen-Ten-Nine he would have led the Ten. East has exactly one card higher than the Six and it may be the Queen, Ten or Nine. The odds are in favor of West's having the Queen, especially as he has picked that suit to lead; and if West has the Queen, the play of the Jack from dummy will insure three Club tricks. While the Queen can not be placed with certainty, the play is advisable, the chances being in its favor.

With the first trick won with the Jack of Clubs, Diamonds should be led from dummy toward closed hand's King-Jack-Ten. With East playing small, South should play the Jack. To put dummy in again, Hearts should be led. A second Diamond from dummy will be finessed, South playing the Ten unless East plays the Ace (it is not probable that he will do so) and then dummy can put in with the King of Hearts to lead a third Diamond.

If the hand were played in that way, Declarer would win one Spade, three Hearts, three Diamonds and three Clubs—ten tricks. If Declarer should not take advantage of the opportunity to win with the Jack of Clubs, it would be easy for the adversaries to save game.

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

PLEASE tell me whether sun is bad for cyclamen. I refer to blooming plants.

RACHEL Y. T.

The florists usually whitewash the glass of their cyclamen houses at the time the plants are beginning to unfold their buds. Before that stage they give them all possible sun, but after they are in bloom they shade them somewhat. In their natural homes they grow in partial shade. I think the flowers will fade less rapidly if the plants are in a light but not sunny place.

During the early part of the winter you advised a reader to plant Japanese spurge instead of grass in places which were exceeding shady. Can you tell me where to get this plant?

MRS. HARRY T.

I am sorry, but we can not publish names or addresses in this column. Better write again, inclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelop, so that I may send you the names of three firms listing pachysandra (Japanese spurge).

I have my porch screened in, but on the side which has no screen it faces an unsightly lot. This must be hidden. Would morning glories make a suitable screen? Are they hard to raise?

MRS. CHARLES B.

Morning glories would make a beautiful and desirable screen. You must keep them within bounds, however. They are of easy culture; all they require is sun, a daily drink and a fairly rich soil.

I have a magnificent cyclamen. Please tell me how to care for it. Should it be watered every day?

Water your plant every day. If you will write again, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope, I will send you a circular that has been prepared for readers on the care of cyclamen.

Can I propagate sansevieria from the leaf? I mean if I cut a leaf into pieces two inches in length and plant each piece in a separate pot of soil, will the pieces root?

ELLA D. P.

They will each root, but they must be set in sand, not in soil.

Please tell me of a good variety of shell-pink petunia and also where I can obtain the same. Also, do you know where I can purchase single dahlia seed?

MARGARET T. P.

Angel of Heaven is the most beautiful single pink petunia I know. I am sorry I can not publish names and addresses in this column. If you care to write again, inclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope, I will tell you of the name of a firm listing the petunia and also the name of another firm listing dahlia seeds.

Please tell me the names of three pink-flowering, spring-blooming shrubs.

ALICE M. P.

Pink-flowering dogwood, weigelia and flowering crabapple. The dogwood and crabapple, while not listed as shrubs, will be excellent for the place in which you want to use them.

Is it well to use bonemeal about shrubs?

MRS. CHARLES T.

Yes.

(Copyright, 1931.)

All readers' questions on growing and care of indoor and outdoor flowers and floral decorations for social functions will be answered by Miss Kift, directly in this column if addressed in care of The Washington Post, or directly to readers if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is supplied.

HOW IT BEGAN

By Russ Murphy and Roy Senusky

"SHAVETAILS"
IT USED TO BE THAT, WHENEVER A NEW CONSIGNMENT OF ARMY MULES ARRIVED IN CAMP THEIR TAILS WERE IMMEDIATELY SHAVED TO DISTINGUISH THEM FROM ANIMALS WHICH WERE EXPERIENCED IN ARMY SERVICE. SECOND LIEUTENANTS WERE LIKEWISE NEW AND REQUIRED BREAKING-IN, SO THEY RECEIVED THE NICKNAME "SHAVETAILS."
SAND-BLASTING
DESERT TRADERS WHO PITCHED THEIR TENTS ON OASES FOUND THAT UTENSILS LEFT ON THE SIDE EXPOSED TO THE WIND WERE BRIGHTER. THEY LEARNED TO SHIFT THEIR WARES SO THAT ALL MIGHT BE EXPOSED TO THE WIND IN TURN AND POLISHED BY THE WIND-BLOWN SAND.
DANCE OF THE MAYPOLE
THIS DANCE WAS A SERIOUS BUSINESS TO THE ANCIENTS. IT WAS THE METHOD USED BY DRUIDS ROMANS AND PHOENICIANS TO ENTREAT MOTHER EARTH TO BE FRUITFUL AND GIVE THEM A PROSPEROUS GROWING SEASON. THEIR ANCIENT PRACTICE SURVIVES IN OUR CHILDREN'S MAYPOLE DANCES.

If you have other ideas as to HOW IT BEGAN, write to Russ Murphy, care of The Washington Post. If you want to see how some other particular custom or saying began, let Russ Murphy know and his answer will be illustrated in this series.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

SPASMODIC TENDENCIES.

NOTICE the dog sleeping before the fire. Occasionally he will jerk a leg, sometimes the jerking will be repeated every few minutes. Sometimes you will hear him give a suppressed growl or bark. If so, he is having a nightmare. Sometimes he will move his legs in a miniature run as if he is having an ordinary dream. Neither of these is the type of movement to which attention is now directed. The movement now in mind is the more indirect spasmodic jerking to which sleeping dogs are addicted.

Physiologists tell us these movements are due to excess of guanidine in the blood. Guanidine is an organic substance that develops midway between protein and urea in the changes by which the animal body breaks up the former and uses what it needs of its values and throws the rest away as urea. The theory is that dogs fed on a heavy protein diet have an excess of it. The protein in excess which dogs are apt to get comes from meat.

When the blood contains too much of this guanidine there is a tendency toward jerking of the muscles. If the excess is not great and the subject is a human being we say he is "jumpy." If it is at the far end of the scale convulsions are the result. In between are various gradations. The baby with spasmophilia and a tendency to croup has a slight excess of it. If there are spasms or a violent attack of croup the excess is great.

Dr. Traut and Mr. MacFate have developed a method by which physicians and laboratories can test the blood to discover how much guanidine it contains, whether too much, too little, or just enough. Perhaps the chief work of the parathyroid gland is to restrain a tendency toward convulsions, to keep the nerves and muscles from being too much on a hair trigger. This it is supposed to do by holding the guanidine of the blood about where it should be—neither a famine nor a feast. The lime salts have the same effect, doing in a chemical way what the parathyroid does in a somewhat higher way.

When one is on edge, "jumpy," or subject to hay fever, asthma, croup, or to spasms physicians give them some preparation of lime by the mouth, by injection under the skin or into a vein. They use gluconate, lactate chloride, or some other. These lime remedies are supposed to act by lowering the guanidine content of the blood.

SHOULD IMPROVE MORE.

Mrs. M. L. R. writes: I am a woman of 30 years and am a victim of jake paralysis. I used the poison dope for medicine. I have been unable to do anything for nearly a year. My hands are O. K. again, and I can now move my toes and feet up and down slightly. I can walk only when I hold on to something. Do you think I will ever get my balance back and be able to get around again? I have improved some this year, but it is awfully slow. Please tell me just what you think of this terrible paralysis.

REPLY.

You should continue to improve. Keep up your present treatment. Your new nerves and muscles should be trained. Congratulations.

KEEP YOUR HEAD CLEAN.

S. K. writes: I am a man of 21 years and my hair is falling out in the front part of my head. Is there anything that can be done about it?

REPLY.

Try keeping your scalp very clean and persistent brushing of the hair.

THESE IDEAS SURE TO WIN ZAIN PRIZE

Daily Suggestions Designed to Help Amateurs Write Ads.

We give you amateur ad writers a few suggestions each day about what to write about the participating concerns, to help you be a winner. They may give you an idea for a winning ad. Be sure and read them daily.

Gibson Bros., Printers.

In your ads about good printing, the kind of printing done by Gibson Bros., explain why good printing is such an important asset to business success. Tell about the various departments this concern has to relieve the customer of details. Tell about their high quality of work. In fact, their slogan, "all in a nutshell, the peak of perfection," should give you some excellent ideas for ads.

Merchants Transfer & Storage Co.

Let your ad about the company list its various departments. Its moth-proof storage, moving, packing, shipping, freight delivery, heavy hauling, parcel delivery department. Remember it gives correct estimates on all types and classes of work at any time without obligation.

Goldsmith & Co.

The ads you write about Goldsmith & Co. should be very fascinating to write. Feature the company's jewelry, precious sotnes, silverware, and all those high quality complete lines it carries which have established its success. It has enjoyed a reputation of having the largest patronage of any Washington store of the kind for many years. Fifty-eight years of serving the public has earned it the slogan of "Satisfaction Guaranteed."

D. J. Kaufman, Inc.

In writing ads about D. J. Kaufman, Inc., be sure you list the branch stores. The firm has three convenient stores. Remember they have everything for men from head to foot. Once inside the stores you are afforded a most pleasing home atmosphere. It is uniquely different. Radio and other features for your comfort. Tell about the wonderful values and completeness of the stock.

United Food Stores.

What a splendid ad you can write about the United Food Stores. Every one knows the value of delivery service. The United Food Stores have 60 Washington owned and operated stores and markets. The highest quality food and meats at the lowest price. Their tremendous buying power enable them to afford Washingtonians cash and carry prices with delivery service included.

Thomas E. Clark, Inc.

Who is there that doesn't realize the value of good plumbing fixtures? Thomas E. Clark, Inc., gives you the opportunity of having the best at reasonable prices. Feature Mr. Clark's 40 years of satisfactory service. Tell about the acid-resisting fixtures which can be had at a small additional cost. He maintains a complete machine shop which insures safety, satisfaction and prompt service. Call at Thomas E. Clark, Inc., 3407 Connecticut avenue, and even if you don't need additional information, see the new rose spray black tile shower bath he has on display. One look and you can almost get that prize-winning idea for an ad about this concern.

Daily Workouts Advised In Ad Writing Competition

Contestants Urged to Write Every Day, as Fifth Period of Post-Zain Contest Gets Well Under Way, With Wide Variety of Prizes.

With the fifth period of The Post-Zain ad-writing contest under way, you may be the one to write that prize-winning idea. Here's how: The trainer of a race horse each day runs his horse and keeps it fit until it is entered in the race. You do the same. Each day write many ads about each of these 35 participating concerns and keep yourself in condition. The more a horse runs, the more chance it has of wininng a race. It is the same in this race, the more ads you write the more chance you have of winning.

Be the one to win that $100 first prize, or that $165 ABC Washer, or one of those three strands of triple-X Richelieu pearls. If you don't win one of those, remember there will be 175 merchandise prizes. This contest is only open to amateurs. Every one is on an equal footing—to match your wits against other amateurs. Don that "thinking cap" and get busy.

Winning all depends on you. If you write every day your chances of winning improve with each day you write.

Be a hustler. Don't sit back. Even though you think your ads may not win, send them in any way. They might be just the ones the judges will select. Different judges are named throughout the contest, so if your ads did not win a prize for the last period, try again this week.

Miss Ryan, one of the $100 prize winners for the combined third and fourth period, did not win a prize until last week. She was almost tempted not to send her ads in this week, but she would not be a quitter and her perseverance won.

You also can do it. Get busy now. Each day is one day closer to the end of the contest, when the $1,000 grand prize winner will be announced.

There will be five grand prizes this week and 175 merchandise awards. Besides all those special prizes, some of the participating concerns are giving weekly prizes.

Be sure and read the list of prize winners for these concerns which will appear in Sunday morning's Post, as well as the special prize winners who are receiving prizes from the concerns who are giving weekly prizes.

Everybody get started. Don't let another day pass without writing ads and win one of these prizes.

Bruce Chosen Head Of Baltimore Bank

Son of Former Senator to Become President of Institution.

Baltimore, May 8 (A.P.).—James Bruce, vice president of the Chase National Bank of New York, will become president of the Baltimore Trust Co., largest banking house in the city, in the near future, it was announced today. Donald Symington, the present president, will continue as senior executive officer and will be made chairman of a new governing board modeled after that of the Chase National Bank.

The Baltimore Trust Co., in its latest statement, listed resources of more than $94,000,000. Mr. Bruce, a native of Baltimore, is one of two sons of former Senator William Cabell Bruce.

Waldo Newcomer is to remain as chairman of the executive committee, and Senator Phillips Lee Goldsborough chairman of the board of directors.

Maj. John Marston Sails for Capital

Nicaragua Honors Marine Officer With Medal for Recent Services.

Bluefields, Nicaragua, May 8 (A.P.) (By Radio to the Associated Press).—Maj. John Marston, of the Marine Corps, for the past two years area commander of the Guardia Nacional of the eastern area of Nicaragua, sailed today on the S. S. Nicaro for New Orleans, en route to Washington. His home is in Annapolis, Md.

Before sailing, Maj. Marston was rewarded for his services here by President Moncada, who conferred on him the Nicaraguan Medal of Merit.

Due to his able disposition of the troops under his command, the recent determined offensive of bandit forces against the east coast was completely frustrated.

C. M. T. C. NUMBERS SET UP NEW RECORD

More Applicants for Army Course This Year Than Ever.

Richmond, Va., May 8 (A.P.).—A Third Army Corps Area announcement received here today said that with more than 9,000 applications on file at headquarters the active enlistment campaign for the citizens' military training camps for Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia and District of Columbia has been officially discontinued.

This number, the announcement said, is the largest for the Third Corps Area since the establishment of the summer camps and exceeds last year's record of 7,434 by more than 1,600. Another record was established this year in the short enrollment period of only two months compared to former years when active enlistment was conducted to within ten days of the opening of the camps.

Curtailment of appropriations for camps of the Third Corps Area, the announcement said, places a difficult problem before officers in charge of C. M. T. C. affairs. Since mileage is one of the biggest items of expense, a smaller number can be handled where the distance to be traveled is greater than if quotas are filled from districts near their respective camps.

Both Pennsylvania and Virginia have greatly exceeded their allotted quotas, each by more than 50 per cent. The Virginia quota was 1,040 and there were 1,685 applicants.

HOOVER WILL HONOR CORNELL'S WAR DEAD

Presidential Speech for Memorial Dedication Will Be Broadcast.

Special to The Washington Post.

Ithaca, N. Y., May 8.—President Hoover will honor seven Washington men who gave their lives in the World War, in dedicating the new Cornell University War Memorial May 23, with an address to be brought to Ithaca by telephone from either the White House or the presidential summer camp on the Rapidan.

Those man are Capt. Hugh McKay Davis, Lieut. Thomas Henderson Farnsworth, recipient of the Distinguished Service Cross; Kenneth Hugh Nash, Lieut. David Oettinger, Lieut. William de Chastignier Ravenel, jr., Lieut. Jesse Morse Robinson and Capt. Ernest Edward Weibel.

Many other residents of Washington will participate in the dedication ceremonies, as specially invited guests, in honor of their services during the World War. Their names form a list of nearly 50, most of whom either held commissions of high rank or were decorated by the United States or one of the allied nations.

The dedication program, including music of the famous Cornell chimes and a presidential salute of 21 guns, will be broadcast over the basic Red network of the National Broadcasting System at noon. Frank H. Hiscock, chairman of the board of trustees of the university and president of the New York State Bar Association, will preside. President Livingston Ferrand, of Cornell University, will make an address of acceptance following the official presentation of the buildings.

Dr. MacCracken Plans Home in Washington

That Dr. John Henry MacCracken, New York, educator and publicist, intends to make his future home in this city, was indicated yesterday when plans for a $8,000 garage, prepared for him by York & Sawyer, New York architects, were filed with the office of District Building Inspector Oehmann. Officials of that department were informed that plans for a residence costing approximately $150,000 would be submitted later.

The garage will be located at 2310 Bancroft place, the residence facing S street northwest in the 2300 block, near the residence of Mrs. Woodrow Wilson and the former home of President Hoover.

First Autogiro in U. S. Will Be Given Museum

The first autogiro ever flown in this country soon will be placed on exhibition in the Smithsonian Institution, according to announcement yesterday. Juan de la Cierva, its inventor, built the machine, which was brought to the United States in 1925. It will be flown here, after being put in condition, and placed near Lindbergh's transatlantic plane, the Spirit of St. Louis.

The Aircraft Museum Building is having an automatic sprinkler system installed and will be opened in about three weeks. Paul Edward Garber, curator of aeronautics at the Smithsonian, said. Another new exhibit will be the Bremen, the German monoplane which was the first heavier-than-air craft to make a nonstop west-east crossing of the Atlantic.

$7,500 Suit Is Lost Over Check Payments

Charles D. Kenney, trading as the Washington Electric Co., yesterday lost a suit for $7,500 against the North Capitol Savings Bank. Justice Frederick L. Siddons' instructions to the jury to bring in a verdict for the bank ended the trial of several days.

The payment of alleged forged checks, and of checks brought to the bank by an employe of the electric company, allegedly without authorization of Kenney, formed the basis of the suit. The bank's attorneys showed that the employe had been represented to the bank as having authorization to indorse checks. The employer is also said to have ratified the action of the employe after discovery of the cashing of the checks.

$130,000 Suit Filed In Alleged Collision

Naming Joseph M. Wise and his wife, Hilda Wise, as defendants, John E Hessick yesterday filed suit for $130,000 damages. Mr. Hessick, in the District Supreme Court, alleged that an automobile owned by Mr. Wise and operated by his wife struck a truck in which he was riding and overturned it.

He was pinned under the truck and suffered injuries that kept him abed for three months, he said. He lost his position and has suffered greatly from the injuries he received, he charged.

Virginia Divorce Law Annulment Suit Basis

The failure of Pauline M. Boyer to observe the Virginia law that a six-month period must ensue after a divorce before another marriage can be contracted was claimed by Galen T. Boyer yesterday in an annulment suit against his wife.

The couple went through a ceremony in Norristown, Pa., March 23, 1931, and lived together until April 14, Boyer said. He asserts that he has since learned of his wife's divorce in Virginia, which was dated February 27, 1931.

FINANCE PLAN READY FOR HIGHWAY STUDY

Fairfax County Is Only One of Eleven Agencies Not Yet Cooperating.

Plans for financing the regional highway survey to be conducted in the outskirts of the District and within adjacent States were announced yesterday by C. W. Eliot 2d, director of planning, when an agreement drafted by the Bureau of Public Roads was submitted to the regional highway committee, sponsored by the National Capital Park and Planning Commission.

Four of the eleven agencies involved have signed the agreement, three others have voted favorably on the proposal, and all others, save Fairfax County, have indicated approval.

Half of the estimated $40,000 cost of the survey is to be borne by the Bureau of Public Roads, which will have general supervision of the investigation, while $10,000 will be contributed by the National Capital Park and Planning Commission.

Counties Pay $1,000 Each.

The remaining expense is distributed as follows in the proposal: Maryland State Roads Commission, which has signed the agreement, $2,000; Virginia State Highway Commission, which has signed a preliminary draft, $2,000; Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission, which has voted favorably, $1,000; Alexandria, which has signified approval, $1,000; Prince Georges County, Md., which has voted, $1,000; Montgomery County, Md., voted, $1,000; Arlington County, Va., which has agreed to vote, $1,000, and Fairfax County, Va., which has taken no action, $1,000.

The District government will cooperate in the survey, but will pay none of the cost, as Congress refused to appropriate money for the purpose at its last session.

The contributions may be either in cash "or its equivalent in personal or other services," the agreement states.

Main Highway Plan Sought.

Purposes of the survey, as stated in the proposal, are to obtain facts which will enable the agencies concerned "to develop a comprehensive, systematic and connected system of main highways for the whole area involved and to develop a priority program of highway construction and betterment."

The survey will include a highway traffic census to determine the origin and destination of various kinds of vehicles. William A. Van Duzer, newly appointed District traffic director, is now employed in making preparations for this count.

The survey will begin July 1 and will require a year to complete. The Bureau of Public Roads will compile and analyze the data obtained from the investigations.

Orphanage Silent On Pardon Move

Organization's Head Admits James Jones' Case Is Under Discussion.

Richmond, Va., May 8 (A.P.).—Officers of the Virginia Methodist Orphanage, when questioned today, would neither confirm nor deny a report that a resolution seeking a pardon from the governor for James P. Jones, convicted of embezzling funds of the orphanage while serving as treasurer, was adopted at a recent meeting of the board here.

Col. R. L. Brewer, jr., of Suffolk, new president of the board, in a long distance conversation, said the matter of the resolution was discussed, but that the session was executive and he therefore had no statement to make. C. I. McAllen, superintendent of the orphanage, said the meeting was an executive session, and that he was not at liberty to discuss the matter.

Jones was recently convicted of embezzling funds of the orphanage and sentenced to five years in the penitentiary. He is at liberty on $15,000 bond bail, pending action by the Federal Supreme Court on an application for a writ of certiorari.

WINNERS NAMED IN PRIZE RECIPES

Five Awards in Books Added to $5 Main Prize; Also Honorable Mention.

The popularity of the Recipe Contest contributed by women who used foodstuffs in their recipes advertised on this page was proved in a few days after the first announcement was made.

It has been decided that in addition to the $5 main prize five book prizes shall be given weekly until further notice, and that a number of honorable mentions be awarded for recipes containing special merit. The book prizes and honorable mentions this week are as follows:

TASTY POT OF COFFEE.
(Awarded Book Prize.)

Mix one cup of Swing's Java and Mocha ground coffee with one egg, slightly beaten, and crushed shell. To one-third of this amount add one-third cup cold water. Turn into a scalded coffee pot, add one pint boiling water and boil three minutes. Let stand on back of range ten minutes, serve. Keep remaining coffee and egg closely covered in Electric Refrigerator to use two successive mornings.

MRS. DOT M. EBERT.
1105 Jefferson street northwest.

MEAT LOAF.
(Awarded Book Prize).

Ingredients: ½ pound of pork; ¾ pound of round steak; 1 small white onion; 1 small stalk of celery; 1 sprig parsley; 12 or small quantity of mushrooms; 1 can of Del Monte tomato sauce; 1 egg; 1 level teaspoon of salt.

Grind pork, steak, onion celery and parsley together, add salt and mix well with egg. Fold this all together, put in buttered casserole, dot with dozen mushrooms, cover with can of tomato sauce. Bake in medium oven from three-fourths to one hour. This serves from five to six persons. To make more attractive, add spray of parsley after removing from oven.

MRS. RALPH CAMPBELL.
5104 Kansas avenue northwest.

SOFT HONEY CAKE.
(Awarded Book Prize.)

½ cup of butter or other shortening; 1 cup of honey; 1 egg; ½ cup of sour milk or buttermilk; 1 teaspoon of soda; ½ teaspoon of cinnamon; ½ teaspoon of ginger; 2 cups of flour.

Cream the honey with the butter well, add the beaten egg, blend well, then the sour milk. Sift the spices and the soda with the flour, which has been sifted two times. Add to first mixture and bake in a slow oven. A shallow pan should be used.

This cake is especially to be recommended for persons who can not eat sugar. It satisfies the craving for sweets, but is not harmful.

MRS. STEPHEN CLOP.
4102 Garrison street northwest.

(Awarded Book Prize.)

3½ cups granulated sugar, ¼ cake or ¼ pound chocolate, 1 cup milk.

Put all ingredients in large saucepan and allow them to cook until soft-ball stage is reached, stirring often. Remove pan very carefully without shaking fudge and put it in a cool place until nearly cool. Add 1 teaspoon each of salt and vanilla and stir until creamy. It will be a light brown in color and very pliable, but not sticky. Knead with hands until very, very smooth; flatten out in a sheet on porcelain or marble slab, until about one-half inch thick and 4 inches wide. In the middle of sheet and from one end to the other place a long roll, about as thick as one's thumb, of Schindler's peanut butter. Draw up the sheet of chocolate to completely cover peanut butter. Roll smooth with palms of hand and slice in half-inch slices. This combination makes a delicious, cheap and rather unusual confection, which is not so sickeningly sweet as most fudges.

MRS. H. F. MUNN.
Crozet, Albemarle County, Va.

SATURDAY SANDWICH.
(Honorable Mention.)

Spread a slice of Schneider's whole-wheat bread alternately with butter, Schindler's "fresh roasted" peanut butter and Zirkle's pure honey. Cover with another slice of bread and cut into four triangles. This is extra delicious when served with Swing's richly pleasing coffee.

ALICE KERFOOT.
Riverdale, Md.

CHEESE DREAMS.
(Awarded Book Prize.)

2 slices Schneider's whole wheat bread; 6 slices American or pimiento cheese; butter.

Spread butter on one side of each piece of bread. Put cheese between two pieces, making six sandwiches, buttered side out. Fry in a pan until brown. Serve with jam, jelly or sirup. Makes a delicious luncheon dish.

CAROLINE ROSSI.
3403 O street northwest.

Blue Law Bars Air Show.

Topeka, Kans., May 8 (A.P.).—Air circuses on the sabbath violate the Kansas blue laws. Attorney General Roland Boynton so advised Trego County officials today in instructing them to take action to prevent an air show near Wakeeney next Sunday.

CALF LIVER COSTLY FROM BIG DEMAND

But Heart, Liver and Kidney of Beef, Lamb and Pork Are Cheap Yet Good.

That the heart, liver and kidney of beef, the liver of lamb and the liver and heart of pork are inexpensive meats which make edible dishes was pointed out yesterday by Dr. Hazel K. Stiebeling, food specialist of the Bureau of Home Economics, U. S. Department of Agriculture.

These low-cost foods are likewise rich in vitamins, more so in fact, declares Dr. Stiebeling, than muscle meats, and in addition provide an interesting variation in the diet.

Price Has Skyrocketed.

"So much has been said recently about liver that the demand for calf liver has skyrocketed the price until it is now one of the most expensive meats on the market," Dr. Stiebeling said. "Beef liver and hog liver are rich in vitamins and minerals and are sold anywhere from 5 to 25 cents a pound, depending chiefly on locality. Hog liver is better known in the South and is usually cheaper than beef liver.

"Like all pork products, the hog liver must be well cooked. Recent experiments with it at the bureau demonstrated that it is much more palatable if scalded one-half to one minute before cooking. With this procedure it compares favorably with beef and calf liver. Either kinds of liver may be fried with or without bacon; scalloped with potatoes or rice; broiled; cooked in casserole; creamed with ham and served on toast or made into a loaf with rice. The bureau has tested all these recipes.

Kidney Rich in Vitamins.

Kidney is another meat seldom used which, is richer than muscle meats in the vitamins which are indispensable to normal growth, help prevent bacterial infection of the respiratory system, and prevent beriberi and pellagra. Served in a stew, kidney makes a very nourishing main dish for a meal and in an omelet it is one of the foods for which Paris is just famous.

Beef heart, owing to lack of demand, is not sold everywhere, but where it can be bought it ranges in price from 12½ to 20 cents a pound. Calf hearts are more expensive but are not so high as calf liver. Beef heart is good when stuffed with savory dressing and baked. Its flavor is excellent.

Dr. Stiebeling emphasizes that liver is often cooked too long and at too high a temperature. She suggests steaming or boiling it for young children. Older children may have sandwiches filled with chopped cooked liver, mixed with celery or a little lemon juice and seasoned with salt. She advocates liver in small amounts three or four times a month for children and perhaps twice for adults.

HOUSEKEEPERS BACK WASHINGTON BAKERS

Alliance Hits Sacrifice in Bread Quality to Reduce Price.

Introduced by Mrs. Harvey W. Wiley, widow of the noted food specialist, and indorsed unanimously, a resolution was passed yesterday at the annual meeting of the Housekeepers Alliance urging support of the local bread industry against the onslaught of out-of-town firms and deploring any sacrifice of standards of production "for the sake of cheapness." Miss Margaret Fraser, chairman of the resolutions committee of the society, seconded the resolution.

Mrs. Wiley pointed out, in offering her measure that Washington housekeepers, as represented by the alliance, always hae stood for excellence of quality in all food production and that, while they also favor maintaining the lowest price possible to the consumer, with a reasonable profit to the producer, they have no wish to obtain lower prices at the expense of standard of quality.

Mrs. Albert W. Baggs, president of the organization, sounded a "Buy-in Washington" note in a speech declaring that Washington housekeepers as citizens should patronize their local merchants and locally made products.

In addition to the regular business of the annual meeting, which included reading of the secretary's and treasurer's reports and short reports from members of the executive board, the Alliance voted a contribution of $10 to the Washington Symphony Orchestra.

Mrs. Wiley, who is vice president of the Alliance, announced that the work of securing the site for the farmers' market, in which the alliance has been interested for the past four years, is at last completed and that ground would be cleared next week on lot 354, located between Eleventh and Twelfth and E and F streets southwest.

Mrs. Wiley also reported that reports of food commissions of 21 States definitely opposed the ruling of Secretary Hyde of December 26, permitting an exemption of the labeling provision of the food law in favor of corn sugar.

The meeting was held at Mrs. Wiley's home, 2345 Ashmead place.

Women Study Americanism Under Jewish Council on Visit Here.

One of the most unique pilgrimages ever made to the Nation's Capital will take place tomorrow, when a large delegation of women who are taking Americanization courses under the National Council of Jewish Women in various cities in the East will tour Washington and be addressed by officials of the United States Bureau of Education. Upward of 700 women from New York, New Jersey and Maryland are to participate in the pilgrimage.

Mrs. Morris Cafritz, chairman of the committee on services for foreign-born, is in charge of the Washington arrangements. The program calls for addresses by Dr. William J. Cooper, Commissioner of the United States Bureau of Education, and Dr. L. R. Alderman, head of the Adult Education Division, at 9 o'clock on the Capitol steps. After a sight-seeing trip the program will be continued at the Jewish Community Center of Washington, where luncheon will be served.

Miss Celia Rasovsky, executive secretary of the committee on Americanization of the National Council of Jewish Women, is in charge of arrangements from the headquarters in New York and will accompany the group.

Mrs. C. Letvin, of this city, will represent the Washington Americanization School, and Miss Maude E. Aiton, of the same institution, will be a guest of honor at the luncheon.

STOCK PRICES GAIN IN RALLY AT CLOSE

Bears Attack Steel and Can Shares, But Seek Cover as Market Rises.

New York, May 8 (A.P.).—The security and commodity markets improved today. Only in the case of bonds could the gain be traced directly to the new Federal Reserve rediscount rate, although this factor may have been lurking in the background of the stock market which came forward with a good rally in the last hour. Call money, renewing at 1½ per cent, eventually get down to 1.

Bears took another early fling at United States Steel and American Can, sending the former to the new low of 109¾. Their theory was that the lower rediscount rate was a commentary on the state of trade and that lower share prices were to be had for a little labor.

As in recent sessions, the general list declined to be alarmed by pressure against these two industrials and moved along quietly, except for weakness here and there in the rails. When most stocks began to work away from Steel and Can, bears became alarmed and covered energetically in the last hour. Sales in the last 50 minutes were 1,100,000 shares out of the day's total of 2,700,000.

Issues Share Gains.

Net gains of 2 to 4 points embraced most of the more active issues. U. S. Steel closed at 114, up 3, and American Can rallied 3½. Stocks in the 2 to 3 point group included Radio, General Electric, Bethlehem, Westinghouse, American Telephone, International Telephone, North American, Gillette, National Biscuit, Sears Roebuck, Baltimore & Ohio, Union Carbide and Allied Chemical.

Chain Store shares, encouraged by the success attending bullish demonstrations in their direction yesterday, rose willingly. Woolworth gained more than 3 points, to a new high. W. T. Grant also exceeded its previous 1931 top.

Summaries of the week's developments in trade reported narrow changes. Bradstreet's said ebb and flow movements were virtually in balance and that retail business, with the aid of the weather, had been better. According to Dun's, evidence accumulated during the week pointed to "a continuance of the decline in general business activity, rather than to any perceptible slackening in the flow of recession." It affirmed, however, that some of the current elements were favorable to a more hopeful attitude, particularly the firmness of grains and cotton.

Railway Meeting Studied.

The meeting of railway executives at Chicago attracted considerable attention, especially since it had been reported that a horizontal increase in freight rates, as one means of increasing revenues, was to be discussed. The report of building contracts for April, showing a 9 per cent decline from a year ago, was more favorable than had been reported in earlier weekly statements. The volume was far below the average for recent years.

New crop wheat gained ⅜ to ¾ on estimates of insufficient moisture in the Northwest and a reported decrease in French acreage. Corn's gain was about half a cent bushel, reflecting smaller Argentine exports and a firmer cash market. Cotton advanced 12 to 16 points.

Foreign exchanges were quiet. Sterling, which had apparently discounted the rate cut, was off a trifle. Brazil's milreis made a new low for the year.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, May 8 (A.P.).—Prospects of drought becoming worse in Canada did much to turn grain prices upward today. Official reports indicated that moisture supplied overnight to spring wheat areas both in Canada and this country was too scant to be of any important help. Wheat was bullishly affected also by purchases to prepare for a possible surprise in the United States Government crop summary due after trading had ended.

Trade comment after the report had been issued was that the Government report favored bulls as showing a probable harvest of 6,000,000 bushels less wheat than the average of recent private estimates.

Wheat closed firm, unchanged to ¾ cents higher; corn, ⅜ to ¾ up; oats, ¼ to ⅝ advance, and provisions 5 to 20 cents down.

At first, wheat and other cereals showed a downward price trend owing to early indications that rains would afford considerable relief from drouth. Bears contended, too, that the United States Government crop report was likely to point to a domestic winter wheat yield large enough to take care of home requirements and to permit spring wheat to be devoted entirely to export uses. Later, however, advices were received showing that only 5 points out of 33 in Canada had obtained even a third of an inch of rain.

Forecasts of dry weather in Canada have imparted to advances which ensued in wheat prices. Furthermore, extremely high barometer overspreading the Northwest was generally taken to mean that drought conditions would intensify, as in many sections the rains had been barely sufficient to lay the dust. Canadian wheat supplies were estimated at 16,000,000 bushels less than was the case at this time last year. North American exports for the week were about double those of either the week previous or a year ago.

Corn and oats swayed with wheat. Wet cold weather, adverse to planting, and corn growth were factors promoting price upturns.

Provisions receded with hog values.

BOND PRICES HIGHER ON BANK-RATE CUT

Advance Is General With Rails and Utility Issues Sharing Upturn.

New York, May 8 (A.P.).—The bond market responded today to the reduction in the rediscount rate with a general advance, which was more marked among some groups than others. Sales aggregated $12,439,000, the largest daily total in about a month and one of the largest this year. Average prices for rails, utilities and industrials showed good gains.

Activity among Government obligations was concentrated among a few of them, but the advance was general. The Treasury 4¼s of 1947-52 jumped one-half point, which is a large net gain for bonds which fluctuate in thirty-seconds of a point. The Liberty fourth 4¼s closed at a new high level for 1931, and other Government bonds ended the day less than one point under their peak prices this year.

Railroad issues also appreciated conspicuously. Atchison General 4s equaled their 1931 high. Delaware & Hudson refunding 4s, Southern Pacific 4½s, and Pennsylvania Series D 4½s reached new peak prices. Several New York Central issues gained fractions. The upward movement was not confined to bonds of railroads with the best credit ratings, however. Several of the sharpest advances were made by issues of lower standing which have been under intermittent selling pressure. Chicago & Northwestern Series A 4½s, St. Paul 5s of 1975, a string of Missouri Pacific bonds, and New York, Chicago & St. Louis Series C 4½s and Series A 5½s made good gains. These lists illustrate the breadth of the movement.

The upturn extended to public utilities, but it was not so general as among the other groups. Stock privilege issues were usually higher with the corresponding stocks.

Foreign issues were generally higher. Argentine loans eased off. Brazilian bonds gained sharply. The fiscal agents for the San Paulo 7 per cent coffee realization loan announced that the receipts from the sale of pledged coffee for the ten months ended with April amounted to $8,110,833, of which $4,866,500 were used for the redemptions as of April 1 and the balance is applicable to the October 1 redemption. An appropriation of $405,542 for the reserve account of the whole loan was made also.

16 WASHINGTON: SATURDAY, MAY 9, 1931.

TWENTY GRAND RULES 7-5 CHOICE IN PREAKNESS TODAY;

NATS BOW TO DETROIT IN TENTH IN PITCHING DUEL, 3-2

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

THE Washington Ball Club's dubious start in the pennant race has stimulated my reactionary reflexes to the point where this column is constrained to dwell upon the situation as the Nats sally into the camp of the Western enemy which so thoroughly destroyed their championship hopes last season. If they tell me that the season is young yet, I will come right back with the snappy retort that a game lost in May counts just as much as a loss in September.

With the old reliable statistics at hand, this column can discern that the Nats have lost one more game than graces the win column and are now resting in the second division. There is consolation in the corresponding figures of the Athletics, who are just a couple of notches ahead, but there the defense rests.

This is no pace for a team with championship hopes popularly ascribed to the Nats and admitted and affirmed by Manager Johnson and President Clark Griffith, respectively. At the speed they have been retreating from the pennant in their first 21 games, the Nats will be making preparations for the 1932 campaign by midsummer.

Crowder and Hadley

The accusing finger can be pointed in several directions, chief of which is toward the pitching staff that has broken the faith with Johnson. This charge brings to the bar particularly Alvin Crowder and Bump Hadley, twin culprits in the decline of the club.

Messrs. Crowder and Hadley have been a pair of millstones about the collective necks of the Nats in their attempts to gain a contending, if not commanding, position in the pennant scramble. They were the secret reliances of Manager Johnson when the word went out from Biloxi that the Nats possessed the best pitching staff in the league. He expected one of the two to be outstanding this season. Outstanding they are, both of them, with the reverse English very apparent that it is not in the manner that Johnson had hoped.

Secret Is Out

Manager Johnson has declared himself perplexed, nonplussed and otherwise baffled by the dismal failure of Crowder to show winning form or approach the form that made him the leading American League pitcher in 1927, while with the Browns after he had been released by Bucky Harris. But Crowder's case is no mystery to this column. I am reliably informed that his poor showing is directly traceable to the fact that he has not yet fully recovered from the automobile accident he suffered near Rochester, N. Y., in which he received a severe shaking up and was confined to his bed for several days. The secret, folks, is now out.

For Hadley, there is no such excuse. Before leaving for New York and the West last Sunday, Johnson reiterated once more than Hadley has a "world of stuff." The old master is qualified to speak on that subject, but the records, showing one victory and three defeats for the Lynn Big Boy, is by no means sotto voce.

Manush and Bluege

In two other sectors, Johnson is disappointed, albeit not discouraged. The Nats have received little assistance this season from Bluege at third base and Heinie Manush in left field. Bluege's batting mark of .250 is not notably poor for a weak-hitting third baseman, but even his fielding has tailed off this season and Johnson on different occasions has found it advisable to lift him from the line-up.

Heinie Manush's batting average of .256 is about as consoling as a brass band at a funeral. It is patent that the big left-fielder has not struck his batting stride, which is nominally around .350, but in the meantime the Nats are forced to depend upon a pitching staff that has not proved dependable with the exception of Lloyd Brown and Sam Jones. 'N'ats 'at.

The world's luckiest man played both Meander and Fourth Ward to win in the dead heat at Pimlico yesterday.

Washington-Lee Nine Defeats Central, 10-4

Washington-Lee High's baseball nine added its third Washington High School baseball scalp to its belt yesterday afternoon when Central High was taken into camp, 10-4.

Central aided its own defeat by contributing seven errors, four of which were proffered by Raub, third baseman.

Seymour held Central fairly powerless throughout, allowing but five scattered hits, striking out ten and walking but three. Two of Central's hits, including a double, were turned in by Heflin, who has been in a hitting slump all season.

Shorey Keeps Woodmont Crown

Kenwood Star Beats Hermann, 2 and 1, in Tourney Final.

Has 8 1-Putt Greens; Eliminates Rabbitt in Morning Play.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

JOHN C. SHOREY, Kenwood, who last year won the Woodmont Club invitation golf tournament, yesterday repeated his victory, defeating James D. Herrman, Washington, on the seventeenth green of the final round of eighteen holes, 2 and 1. The consolation in the first flight was won by Thomas P. Bones, jr., Columbia, who defeated George J. Richardson, Indian Spring, on the eighteenth green, 1 up.

The semifinals were not walkaway matches. Shorey, who played against Alton Rabbitt, unattached, was only 1 up at the turn and not until he had won the sixteenth was he 2 up. With a half on the seventeenth, he eliminated Rabbitt from the tournament, 2 and 1.

Herrman, although he had his opponent, Forrest Thompson, Beaver Dam, 3 down in the first four holes, was checked in his mad career and at the tenth was only 1 up. On the fifteenth Herrman was actually 1 down, but he squared the match on the seventeenth and won out by running down a long putt for a birdie 3 on the home green. In the two matches the outcome was in doubt until the winning putt was holed out.

Hermann Unsteady With Drives.

In the final round Herrman was uncertain from the tee and not until he had reached the sixth hole did he play his second shot from a fairway. Three hooked drives in succession from the first three tees did not offer a promising outlook, but they did not always prove fatal, for on the second hole he played a fine mashie shot to the green and holed out in a par 4 for a win, but a hooked iron on the third cost him the hole. He was out in 37, without one 1-putt or one 3-putt green, but he was then 2 down to Shorey.

Only on the eleventh hole, where he sank a long putt to secure a half with Shorey's 4, and on the fourteenth, where another long putt enabled him to half Shorey with a par 3, did Hermann have a 1-putt green.

On the other hand, Shorey, who was more consistent in the fairways on his drive, was deadly with his mashie niblick, playing his ball from all angles and distances to the pin with remarkable recovery shots, so that on no less than eight greens was he able to hole out with a single putt.

Shorey Scores 35 In First Nine.

Against this supergolf Herrman was powerless to contend. As already stated, Herrman was out in 37, only two strokes over par, but Shorey negotiated the first nine in 35, due to five one-putt greens, and was 2 up. It is true that on the tenth hole, after slicing his drive, he played his second into a trap and his third over the green, losing the hole, and on the fifteenth he played his second into the ditch, holing out in 5, but these were his only serious errors. Even on the fifteenth a single putt after a fine shot across the ditch saved him from a 6. When he ended the match on the seventeenth green he had a par 4 for a 71, two strokes over par, and yet if it had not been for his eight one-putt greens his card might have totaled nearly 79.

Brown Loses Battle With Whitehill

Kuhel's Laxity Allows Tigers to Tie Score in First Inning.

By FRANK H. YOUNG
(Post Staff Correspondent).

DETROIT, Mich., May 8.—Today's mail brought Manager Walter Johnson a so-called lucky rabbit's foot, but this charm failed to bring the Nationals victory, although they went ten innings before succumbing, 3 to 2. It was just another well-pitched game charged to Lloyd Brown's record, although Earl Whitehill hurled well, too. Victory would have meant fourth place for the Nats.

The game ended abruptly after two southpaws had battled tooth and nail, with both teams counting in the opening round, and then having to be satisfied with a goose egg diet until the tenth. Owen opened this extra frame with a single, took second on Koenig's sacrifice, and registered when Akers, not supposed to be much of a hitter, double to right.

Kuhel Hesitates, Game Is Lost.

But for some uncertainty on the part of Joe Kuhel, the Nationals would have won out, 2 to 1, but Judge's understudy stopped to think a moment in the first inning and while he was thinking Owen scored the second alien run of this frame, to tie the string at 2-all, the Nats having gotten off to a two-run lead.

Myer opened the game by tripling to left and Sam Rice's out let him register. After Manush had lined to Whitehill, Cronin coaxed a pass, and West, who led the Nats' attack with three hits, came through with a triple. Brown's only poor round of the day was in the home half.

Johnson led off for the Tigers with a single and Owen walked. Koenig flied out, but Alexander singled Johnson home and Owen to third. Stone then bounded a high one to Kuhel. Instead of immediately pegging to the plate, he hesitated and then it was too late and the score was tied.

Later Brown uncorked a wild pitch and then filled the bases by walking Doljack, but he pulled out of the hole by fanning Schang.

Southpaws Battle Along.

From this stage until the abrupt finish, the two southpaws put up quite a battle. Brown struck out seven during the game and only one Tiger reached third between the second and tenth, this being Schang, who was nipped at the plate in the seventh. With two out, he tried to go all the way from second to home on Owen's tap, which appeared to be headed for right field. Kuhel grabbed the ball with his gloved hand, however, and pegged to Cronin, hoping for a force play, for two were on at the time. This effort did not materialize, but Cronin promptly whipped the ball to Spencer, and Schang was caught with yards to spare.

Although the Johnsons knicked Whitehill's offerings for at least one hit in seven of the ten innings and managed to work men around as far as third on three occasions, when hits meant runs, Whitehill was as tight as the well-known Pullman car window.

On several occasions the Nats were within a hit of victory, but they were stopped dead. In addition to their nine hits, they benefited from four bases on balls, one more than was issued by Brown, but this simply was not their day and so they absorbed their third straight defeat.

Brown has now started six games and he has pitched well enough to deserve victory in each. His starts seem to be stop signals to his mates, though, and he is beginning to think "their ain't no justice." And he can not be blamed much.

Quinn Halts Rally in 9th As Robins Down Phils

Philadelphia, May 8 (A.P.).—Joe Shaute, Brooklyn southpaw, pitched his way to his third straight victory over the Phillies today, winning a close game, 4 to 3. Shaute weakened in the ninth inning and Jack Quinn was called upon to stop a threatened Philadelphia rally at the cost of one run.

Stewart Bolen, who started for the Phillies for the first time, lost his own game through his wildness.

Equipoise (left) and Twenty Grand will renew their rivalry which was the feature of the 2-year-old division last year when they meet in the Preakness today. The Greentree Stable colt, which earned two decisions over Equipoise in three races last year, will go to the post a slight favorite over the Cornelius V. Whitney star, which receded from favoritism following its poor showing in the Chesapeake Stakes at Havre de Grace.

PLAYERS GET LECTURE BY JOHNSON

Team Told to "Snap Out of It"; Jones to Face Hoyt Today.

Special to The Washington Post.

DETROIT, May 7.—Two former Yankee teammates, Sad Sam Jones, of the Nationals, and Waite Hoyt, of the Tigers, are expected to oppose each other on the pitching mound tomorrow in the second game of the current set.

With one defeat already recorded against them, the Nationals may be depended upon to "step on the gas" in tomorrow's session. If they did not realize it before, Washington players certainly were reminded of the fact by Manager Walter Johnson at a lengthy meeting before today's game that not only may their success or failure on this trip mean their pennant hopes, but that the financial success of the club this season is at stake.

"We've not been playing half as well as we can," the Nat leader told his men, "and we've got to snap out of it and right away. We entered this race doped by many to win and, except for our first series, we've looked like cellar champs at their worst. I've still got confidence in you fellows and I'm counting on you to show a form reversal and put up your real game.

Players May Lose Money.

"The only reason I'm mentioning the importance to the club of this trip is that a poor showing out West here means lack of interest by the fans, falling off in attendance and a lean financial year, and if the club does not make any money you fellows will suffer too when time for signing up next spring comes around."

While all seemed to be impressed by this lecture, it did not help them to win the game which followed.

Coach Al Schacht, noted as a "smart" pitcher when he was a player, had a pupil this morning, spending nearly an hour in the hotel lobby trying to give Pitcher Irving Hadley some fine pointers on the art of hurling. The lesson was given at Manager Johnson's suggestion, and more are to follow, the Nat leader overlooking no bets in his hope of helping Hadley get back his winning ways.

Second Baseman Buddy Myer complained of a slight cold in his back before today's game, while Outfielder Dave Harris declares he is slightly slowed up from the same trouble, only his right arm is affected.

After having given his throwing arm a good test since his insertion in the line-up on April 28, Outfielder Sam West declares that he has not felt even the slightest twinge in his flipper. "Come warm weather and I'll even quit worrying about the wing," said the player this morning.

Kuhel Does Some Slow Thinking.

Slow thinking by Joe Kuhel gave the Tigers their second run and tied the score in the first. With Owen on third and Alexander on first, Stone bounded to the rookie first baseman. Instead of immediately throwing to block the run at the plate, he hesitated and then when he made the toss it was too late.

The Tigers surely miss Charley Gehringer, probably the best second baseman in the league, who is out nursing a sore arm. Indications are that he will be unable to get back in the game for ten days or more. During his absence, Marvin Owen, a rookie from Seattle, is playing short, with Mark Koenig shifted to second.

Kuhel raced close to the sands in short right to make a nice over-the-shoulder catch of Johnson's Texas Leaguer foul in the second.

One of the longest singles seen this season was made by Koenig opening the Tigers' third. It was a liner which narrowly missed clearing the MacFayden and Moore pitched for the winners.

Wes Ferrell, the ace pitcher for the Indians, voluntarily left the box in the first inning with a sore arm. He had permitted Boston to hit three doubles.

Field of Nine In Pimlico Classic

Equipoise 2d Choice Unless Rain Turns Track Heavy.

Kurtsinger-Workman Likely to Clash in Battle of Riders.

By J. B. SNODGRASS.
Special to The Washington Post.

BALTIMORE, Md., May 8.—Nine of the best 3-year-olds in the country will make history tomorrow in the fifty-seventh running of the Preakness, chief race of the Maryland Jockey Club at Pimlico for 3-year-olds, the first of the triple crown of turfdom, to be followed a week later by the Kentucky Derby and completing the royal trinity with the Belmont Stakes in June.

Most of the horses engaged in the mile and three sixteenth race of $50,000 added tomorrow, will not take the result as final, and will go on to the Blue Grass for the next test of this division. Then the best assortment of the two earlier tests will be in the Belmont, with the addition of Jamestown, which will not race out of New York this season.

The entry of the Greentree Stable—Twenty Grand and Surf Board—will be favorite, without further rain and it now seems the track will be fast. C. V. Whitney's leading money winner of last year, who triumphed in the Pimlico Futurity on a muddy track wants rains as keenly as he wants oats, as he has an apparent advantage in slow going.

Battle of Giants, Is Indication.

On the other hand, Twenty Grand seems to prefer a fast or good track. He beat Equipoise twice and was beaten by the son of Pennant-Swinging once. They are close together in speed and stamina. It looks like a battle between these two young giants. Also there will be a battle between Kurtsinger, Twenty Grand's jockey, and the invincible Workman, first line jockey of the C. V. Whitney stable, successor to the Harry Payne Whitney stable, which in its long and great career has accounted for three Preakness Stakes of the past.

The Greentree Stable of Mrs. Whitney included Anchors Aweigh in its entry, but it is understood that was to provide against floods and tornadoes, and that in the absence of any unexpected change for the worse in the track that he would not start.

Twenty Grand will start even if the track is heavy, and decline the issue only in case of rough, heavy going, far beyond an ordinary bad track. Surf Board can run on any kind of track, and moves as smoothly as a watch.

McAtee Will Ride Surf Board.

McAtee will have the mount on Surf Board. He has won his only two starts this year, and just why he has not become almost as sensational in the public mind as either of the other two leading stars is a mystery. He has added immensely to the strength of the Greentree entry.

A. C. Bostwick's Mate, which was third in the Pimlico Futurity last year to both Equipoise and Twenty Grand, can run on any kind of track, but prefers mud. He is sure to figure in this classic, and his stable has confidence in winnnig. He will be third choice.

The Canadian entry, Sol Gills, has worked amazingly, and should give a good account of himself. Walter M. Jeffords' Aegis is by American Flag, and showed at this meeting that he had a right in a Preakness field. The mystery horse, the unknown quantity in the race, is M. L. Schwartz's Clock Tower, recently developed into a whirlwind.

Water Pressed Out Of Track.

The work on the track all last night after the heavy rain by a large force under Supt. Ryan, in which the water was pressed out of the course, was one of the outstanding pieces of work in bringing around a race course after it had been drenched by two rains. Without further rain it will be fast tomorrow.

Everything is set for the running of the big race. Post time will be about 4:45 o'clock, Eastern standard time. There will be 45,000 people here for the running, if the day is fair. Extra parimutuel equipment has been erected at convenient centers, and wagering on the Preakness will begin at 11 o'clock and continue until post time.

The Governor of Maryland and prominent officials and society leaders from Washington, Philadelphia, New York and large cities as far away

MEANDER, FOURTH WARD IN DEAD HEAT AT PIMLICO

Seventh Race Duel Is No Decision

Owners Split Purses for Win and Place; Decline Run-Off.

Frisius Romps Home in Spring Handicap, 3-Horse Feature.

Special to The Washington Post.

PIMLICO RACE TRACK, Md., May 8.—The pre-Preakness crowd at Pimlico today witnessed one of the rarities of racing when Meander and Fourth Ward ran a dead heat in the seventh race, after running heads apart for the entire race.

It was the first dead heat run in Maryland since Polly Ann and Careful raced to no decision several years ago. The judges today wasted little time in expressing their belief that they were unable to pick the winner of the race.

After the running the owners of both horses were called into the stands regarding a possible run-off, but both declined, owing to the soft track conditions and also for the reason that it would take too much time for cooling out purposes. They split the win and place purses.

The odds on Fourth Ward were 4.55 to 1 and one Meander 3.05 to 1. The pay-off in the mutuels was based on splitting the entire win money between the two at the ratio of the odds, and Fourth Ward returned $5.20 for each $2 ticket, with Meander paying $4.30. Both paid more to place than to win by mere coincidence.

Meander was rated along in close pursuit of Fourth Ward from the start and gained a slight lead in the final 3 furlongs only to hang a bit in the final furlong and permit Fourth Ward to pull up to even terms. Punishment, which ran third, was beaten off 4 lengths.

Frisius Wins Feature In 3-Horse Field.

The Pimlico Spring Handicap, feature of the card here today, was won by Belair Stud's Frisius in easy fashion. Paseuma kept the son of Star Hawk in front for the entire trip and he won by five lengths, covering the mile and one-sixteenth in the good time of 1:47 3-5.

The race was reduced to a three-horse affair by the withdrawal of Hot Toddy, Fortunate Youth and Snowflake. The other starters were A. Bartelstein's Golden Prince, which finished second, and W. E. Caskey's William T., third. Frisius, in front from the gate, turned the clubhouse corner easily and settled down well in front. When Golden Prince attempted to go to him on the back stretch, he moved away and in the home stretch drew away as far as his rider pleased.

Frisius, which was second in the Dixie, was made an odds-on favorite, paying $3.30. He earned $2,750 by his victory.

Arrow, Workman Up, Beats Black Bird.

J. E. Davis' Arrow, Workman up, won the first race by a head from D. C. Sands' Black Bird, Kurtsinger up, in a hard-fought race from the far turn. The Le Mar Stock Farm's Mad Wind was third, two lengths back. The time was 0:56. Eleven 2-year-olds started, but it was a two-horse race all the way. The winner paid $5.40. The track was rapidly drying out. The start was good, but Arrow went to the front and held sway to the end. The two leaders were well ridden by the jockeys that will be rivals in the Preakness tomorrow.

Mrs. F. Ambrose Clark's Crumpler won the Consolation Steeplechase, but W. Hunt almost tossed the race away in the last strides, and the result was in doubt until the winner was flashed on the electric board. A. C. Bostwick, on Sea Story, his own horse, was second. Sardaneza, from the Fox Chapel Stud, was third, Regan McKinney up. The winner was the favorite, paying $6.50.

Thomas Hitchcock's Darkness was pulled up as if sore. He was ridden by G. H. Bostwick. Hunt was called to the stand by the stewards and questioned as to his finish on Crumpler. Crumpler was much the best, led all the way, and the race should not have been close. The Consolation was a handicap with a $2,000 purse. Ten nonwinners at the meeting started, hence the name Consolation.

Traffic Judge Wins Juvenile Race.

Traffic Judge beat a good field of 2-year-olds in the third race. Pegg kept the R. P. Watts colt in front all the way. The contender throughout, Bad Axe, the favorite, was second. E. K. Bryson's Donna Dear was third. The winner paid $12.10. The time was 0:56 25. Traffic Judge is an upstanding son of Angon-Mother Machree and was in hand all the way, winning by a length.

G. C. Brenton's Benishway was an easy winner of the fourth race, leading all the way and finishing a length in front of Suneros and Gold Bet. Mud, the favorite, made a poor showing. Jockey Simpson, colored boy, had a broad grin when he returned to the scales, for his mount paid $21.00. Workman moved Mud up at the far turn, while Justa Queen, coupled with Mud, rushed up second, but Benishway was going too strong and the entry dropped out of it. Time, 1:15 2-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—ARROW, $3.40, $3.40, $3.40; BRIGHT BIRD (entry), $3.30, $2.80; MAD WIND, $4.00.

ARROW began quickly and, displaying good speed in the going, saved ground wherever possible, responded to punishment gamely when passed momentarily nearing the final furlong pole and, continuing stoutly under a stiff drive, was up in the last strides. BRIGHT BIRD raced closely lapped on the winner from the start, assuming a brief lead, but faltered in the final sixteenth. MAD WIND, hard hustled all the way, outstayed WORTHINGTON. Latter was hurried for the entire trip. ROKEBY was gaining fast in the stretch run. EXPERTUS was forced to race wide for the entire journey. TURKISH GOLD tired in the final quarter mile. The others had no mishaps.

SECOND RACE—Two and one-quarter miles. Purse, $2,000. The Consolation Steeplechase Handicap. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 2:59. Off at 3:01½. Two-dollar mutuels paid—CRUMPLER, $6.50, 44.80, $3.40; SEA STORY, $6.50, $3.90; SARDENEZA (entry), $2.90.

CRUMPLER fenced in bold fashion and Hunt had snug hold on him most of the trip. He eased up right at the end and almost tossed the race away. SEA STORY finished with a bold effort under stout urging. She was bumped by SARDENEZA at last fence and knocked off her stride, recovered quickly and came again. Latter tired last furlong, fenced well and was well handled. TEQUILA showed a lot of speed between calls, where he went to the front. Tammaro took him very wide going to the seventh jump. BUD BUD was on the extreme outside at eighth fence. Rider lost his stirrup after taking eleventh jump and fell off on the flat. PROOF POSITIVE fell at twelfth jump. DARKNESS was pulled up going to fourteenth jump.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—TRAFFIC JUDGE, $12.10, 14.20, $4.10; BAD AXE, $2.80, $2.60; DONNA DEAR, $4.90.

TRAFFIC JUDGE shook off BAD AXE before they had gone a furlong and drew away rounding the far turn. He was tiring at end and had to be hard ridden to stall off BAD AXE. Latter came again to finish strong. He was gradually closing on the winner at end. DONNA DEAR went wide rounding far turn, but cut across to inside making turn into home stretch. KERNWOOD went very wide and was eased up last sixteenth. NIMBLY showed early speed.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BENISH WAY, $21.00, $10.10, $7.80; SUNEROS, $9.20, $7.60; GOLD BET, $15.60.

BENISH WAY broke rapidly and sprinted into a commanding lead first furlong. He was tiring at the end and staggering to stall off SUNEROS. Latter gradually improved his position and finished with good courage after being taken out to the middle of track in stretch run. GOLD BET broke slow. He was going the strongest of lot at finish. MUD ran a dull race in getting that he particularly fancies. Workman was hustling him along entire journey. JUSTA QUEEN showed speed to top of home stretch.

FIFTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $3,000 added. The Pimlico Spring Handicap. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stall gates. Won easily; place, same. Went to post at 4:50. MEANDER, rated along in close pursuit of FOURTH WARD, gained a slight lead in the final three furlongs, but hung during the final furlong. FOURTH WARD, hard hustled from the start, saved ground all the way, came again after losing command and fought it out stubbornly. A dead heat was declared. PUNISHMENT, slow to settle in his stride, came through on the inside entering the home stretch and finished gamely. VERY HIGH, kept well up in the early stages, weakened at end. STURDY tired. ELLONA had speed in spots.

NAVY RACES SYRACUSE TODAY

Crew Tests Feature of Program at Annapolis.

Special to The Washington Post.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 8.—Varsity, junior varsity and freshmen crews of Syracuse University and the Naval Academy this afternoon put the finishing touches to their preparations for the three-cornered regatta on Severn River tomorrow. Conditions of water permitting, the regatta will get under way at 3 o'clock, the brush for freshmen eights being first and that between the senior eights as the nightcap.

Following their initial shakedown yesterday, the Orange oarsmen were out on the river both morning and afternoon today, and with favorable elements put in some mighty good licks of practice in addition to acquainting themselves with currents and general water conditions of the racecourse. Though a fairly stiff breeze prevailed throughout the day, it was mostly offshore, hence the river was not rough at any stage. The work of the Syracusans impressed local rowing fans and it would not surprise if all of the races are decided by close margins.

Blue Crews Outweigh Rivals.

The Blue crews will outweigh the Orange by an average of four or more pounds in each race. Navy-Syracuse regattas always attract large crowds, and athletic authorities of the Naval Academy will place as many boats in service as possible and have them anchored at vantage points along the course.

With the races as the outstanding attractions a varied and interesting program of other athletics will be staged here tomorrow, despite the fact that the Navy baseball team and the St. John's College lacrosse team will be playing away from home. The tossers are en route to South Bend, Ind., to stack up against Notre Dame, while the Johnnie stickmen will clash with University of Maryland at College Park in what is viewed as the main obstacle to the local twelve landing a third national championship.

Other home events for Navy varsity teams will be a field and track meet with Notre Dame, lacrosse with Lehigh, tennis with Penn. State, and a rifle match with the 107th Infantry, New York National Guard. The plebes will have a baseball game with Severn School, tennis with Maryland freshmen, and a rifle shoot with Western High, of Washington.

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., May 8.—In the final game of the season, Virginia's yearling nine was defeated by the North Carolina freshmen, 11 to 5, in a 7-inning contest. Strickland, giant Tarheel twirler, allowed only four hits and fanned twelve. The Carolinians collected thirteen hits off of a trio of pitchers, who issued ten passes between them.

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON.

THE last, vague championship hopes of the Business High School Baseball Team went glimmering yesterday, when the maroon-clad athletes of Tech pounded out a 13-0 victory in the usual high school fashion, before a small gathering of the faithful in the Eastern High Stadium.

Until yesterday's defeat Business had still retained a mathematical chance of tieing for the crown with the undefeated Eastern nine, and for the first two and a half innings of yesterday's slugfest it looked very much as if the Stenographers would turn the trick. Tech, although slower to find the range, soon overcame the seven-run lead of their opponents, and from the fifth inning on it was only a question of what the final count would be.

Russell Tightens In Pinches.

"Ev" Russell went the full distance for the winners and although hit hard managed to tighten up with men on the bases to gain the decision. Silverman started for Business, and lasted until midway of the sixth when Bill Duryee came to his relief. The two limited Tech to eleven safe bingles, but these were bunched, especially in the third and fifth when Tech assumed the lead.

Business, with all of its fourteen hits, was unable to come through in the pinches, and therein lies the story of its downfall. There were numerous occasions when an ordinary single would have sent two runners scurrying over the counting block. Flynn, of Business, and Batson clouted home runs.

Fielding honors must be accorded Kengla, shortstop for the losers, and Nau, Tech's left fielder. The former nipped a Tech rally by stopping a bullet-like drive through short and recovering in time to make a snap throw that caught the runner at first, while Nau came in fast from deep left to reach over the railing, narrowly avoiding that obstruction, and making a one-hand catch of a foul fly.

St. Alban's Nine Bows To Baltimoreans, 5-4

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Md., May 8.—Gilman School won a hard-fought, 11-inning battle from the St. Alban's School here today by a score of 5-4. Dunlap allowed the losers only five hits, and although the Gilman batters could muster only seven bingles themselves, they came at crucial stages of the game and were converted into the winning markers. Fletcher and Shipper, of St. Alban's, connected for three-base hits, while Brown, Gilman right fielder, shone at bat with a brace of clean blows in five attempts with the willow.

Morton Kaer to Captain Football N. Y. Giants

New York, May 8 (A.P.).—Morton Kaer, all-America half back at Southern California in 1926, has been signed by the New York Giants, professional football team, as field captain.

Kaer will take the place of Benny Friedman, who has retired from professional play to coach the Yale backfield and trade in stocks on the New York curb exchange.

THE ten children of David Whittinghill, all of one parentage, consisted on eight boys and two girls, all of whom are still living. Every child is now over 62 years of age. Their ages range as follows: 62, 64, 70, 72, 74, 76, 78, 80, 82 and 84, making a grand total of all their ages 742 years! Though the total is impressive, more remarkable is the great number of children of one parentage to attain such a grand total of ages without the death of a single child.

Musical pigeons are a popular fad in China. The natives attach whistles made of bamboo tubes to the tail feathers of the birds and put them to flight. The rush of air through the tubes, while a flock of the birds are in the air, causes a melody of soft musical sounds.

Probably the smallest parade on record was the one-man parade staged by Sanford A. Mueller. It took but half a second for this parade to pass any given point.

Maryland Freshmen Beaten at Lacrosse

Baltimore Polytechnic outclassed University of Maryland freshmen at lacrosse, 6 to 0, yesterday afternoon at College Park to continue its undefeated pace. Better stickwork and ability to keep possession of the ball carried the Baltimoreans to victory.

Four of the visitors goals came in the first half and the other two in the second. Miles Shorey, captain and second attack, was the ace of the Poly team, accounting for four of its tallies. He counted a goal in the first five minutes of play to open the scoring.

Grochmal and Ives tallied the other two goals.

Bill Van Orman, son of Ray Van Orman, Hopkins coach, playing first defense for Poly, was removed to the University Infirmary, after sustaining a painful face cut during a scrimmage.

Virginia U. Lacrossemen Beaten by Washington

Charlottesville, Va., May 8.—Virginia's lacrosse team lost the closing game of the season to Washington College by a 9-to-1 score. The visitors from Maryland scored 6 points in the first half, but were guarded more closely by Cavaliers during the second period.

Thomlinson counted the first goal after eight minutes of play, and after that the Marylanders tossed the ball into crease past Virginia's goal with frequency. Except for a lone Cavalier point made by Smith eight minutes before intermission, the visitors' net was never threatened. The Cavalier defense tightened after intermission and the Washington collegians were held to 3 points during second half bout. In this period the Virginians frequently rushed and passed ball down the field, only to see their close attack go to pieces close to the visitors' goal.

V. P. I. LOSES 2 LEAGUE GAMES

Special to The Washington Post.

LEXINGTON, Va., May 8.—Virginia Polytechnic Institute's baseball team was twice victimized in Tri-State League games today by air-tight pitching on the part of opponents in games with Washington and Lee and Virginia Military Institute. Meeting the Generals first, the Gobblers succumbed, 8 to 2, due largely to Jack Jarrett's hurling, and then against V. M. I. bowed to the prowess of Lefty Williams, veteran Cadet southpaw, by a score of 3 to 2.

Except for a brief spell in the seventh inning of the first game, the Gobblers were completely subdued by Jarrett, who allowed only four hits and fanned twelve batters.

Virginia Poly Scores In Seventh.

V. P. I. scored its two tallies in the seventh on singles by Anderson and Allebaugh, an infield out and an error.

The second game was a pitchers' duel throughout with Williams gaining the edge over his old V. P. I. rival, Reggie Mapp. Williams yielded but three hits and struck out ten, while Mapp gave up four safeties and fanned five.

This was V. M. I.'s last home game and clinched the championship of the Big Four Conference, the Cadets having defeated Virginia and V. P. I. two times each.

WARRENTON WINS.

Special to The Washington Post.

Warrenton, Va., May 8.—Warrenton went one notch further toward the county championship of Fauquier by defeating Marshall, 10 to 1. H. Gould, Thorpe and Childs held Marshall to six hits, while Warrenton was making ten off C. Ball. Warrenton has now five wins and no losses and a win next week over Upperville will give them the undisputed championship. Richards, of Warrenton, with two clean hits, led the batters.

ALEXANDRIA BOY STARS IN WEST

Ken Smith, Pitcher Making Good in Semipro Ball.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., May 8.—Ken Smith, Alexandria youth, who formerly starred in scholastic and semi-pro baseball circles in this sector and later entered the professional racket, is playing with the Duffy Floral nine in the Chicago semiprofessional loop this season.

The big Alexandria right-hander has won two games so far. He defeated Pat Page's club in a fray last week, 8 to 1, while on Monday, Smith held the Chicago Firemen to six hits and won his game, 4 to 2. The two runs were scored off his slants in the final frame.

Reports from Chicago say "Smitty" weighs around 190 pounds and is in the best condition of his baseball career. The big fellow states he finds southern college baseball is much faster than that of the northern colleges. Smith by the way is coaching a college nine in the Windy City.

Chicago Supports Semipro Ball.

The Alexandria boy reports that the semiprofessional leagues in Chicago are flourishing and that at his team's game on Sunday over 10,000 were present. He states the reason for the good break in the Chicago leagues this season is that many of the small minor league loops are now operating and there is an influx of ball players in the Windy City.

Smith formerly pitched for New Haven in the Eastern League. He also was with Raleigh in the Piedmont loop and had a try-out with the Griffs.

AUTO CHARGE LINKS DRIVER WITH DEATH

Man in Prince Georges Court Recognized and Held in Manslaughter.

Haled into Prince Georges County Police Court at Marlboro yesterday on charges of driving while drunk and reckless driving, Fred O. Randolph was recognized by Deputy Sheriff A. C. Thompson as being a man indicted for manslaughter by the grand jury last fall.

Randolph, who lives on Sixth street southeast near G street, was fined $101 on the driving charges, and was committed to jail to await a trail on the manslaughter count. His bond was set at $3,000, which he was unable to raise.

The accused man is said to have left the State after an accident last July which resulted in the death of one man and the injury of three others. He was indicted last October, and a bench warrant issued, but he was never arrested.

Deputy Thompson recognized the man's name when the drunk driving charge was tried. He found the bench warrant issued at the time of the indictment, and promptly took Randolph into custody.

Last Monday Randolph was arrested near Forestville, on the Marlboro pike, by Deputy Sheriff L. E. Dudrow. Dudrow said that the man left his car after being stopped and fled through the woods, but was captured after a chase.

Randolph is said to have been the driver of a car which struck a machine driven by George L. Portrast, of 19 P street northeast. The accident occurred near Clinton on July 5, 1930, and the striking machine left the scene at once. Portrast was killed and Mrs. Rose McCullough, of the P street address and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Drake were also injured.

William L. Whiteside, of Seward Square southeast, was also fined $101 for driving while drunk and reckless driving. Judge J. Chew Sheriff delivered a pointed lecture at the conclusion of this case, pointing out that the sellers of liquor were equally guilty with those who drove while intoxicated. He told policemen that they should make every effort to find out who sold the liquor when they made such arrests.

Clinton H. Miles, of Greater Capitol Heights, was fined $5 for having no title to his machine and $10 for having fictitious markers. Joseph C. Peed, of Sixteenth street northeast near G street, forfeited $10 on a charge of reckless driving. Leonard Smith, of G street northwest near Eighteenth street, forfeited $5 for parking without a light.

Angered when the president of the town council of Capitol Heights, George Finger, came to his house to examine drainage conditions, William Compher, of that town, is alleged to have struck Mr. Finger. Mr. Finger, who was accompanied by the mayor, Selig Posin, said that no words were exchanged before the alleged assault.

Gov. Albert C. Ritchie has appointed Perry Boswell head of the county school board for another term of six years, Mr. Boswell has been notified. His former appointment, during which he was also president of the board, expired on May 4.

Prince Georges County school officials will confer with R. C. Thompson, State supervisor of special education, on May 16 to work out plans for the education of crippled children in the county. While there are only twelve children in the county who could not attend school, the bureau of vocational rehabilitation, which is headed by Mr. Thompson, plans to provide home instruction for each of these.

Mr. Thompson also wants two or three teachers from the county to take over the work of teaching children mentally retarded. Those selected will take special courses at Johns Hopkins during the summer months.

School officials who will meet Mr. Thompson are Nicholas Orem, superintendent of schools; Maude Gibbs, Catherine Greene and Mary Kemp, supervisors, and Miss Kathleen Shears, attendance officer.

The Riverdale Women's Club will meet next Tuesday at the school auditorium to elect officers who have been nominated by a special committee headed by Mrs. J. S. Caldwell. Nominees who have been selected are: For president, Mrs. H. E. Wackerman; first vice president, Mrs. Frank R. Barclay; second vice president, Mrs. Charles L. Graefe.

For treasurer, Mrs. George Haines has been nominated, and for recording and corresponding secretaries, Mrs. V. B. Greeley and Mrs. Robert McCathran.

A card party will be given by the club Tuesday evening in the auditorium. A landscape garden layout prepared by Prof. A. S. Thurston, of the University of Maryland, will be on display.

Ogle Marbury, former member of the House of Delegates, has been appointed city solicitor for Laurel, to take the place of George P. McCeney. Mr. McCeney resigned because of ill health.

June 1 has been set for the referendum on the proposed $10,000 bond issue to improve the streets of the town, and a supplementary registration day, required by law before the referendum, will be held on May 18. A special meeting of the town council will also be held on this day to hear any protests against the new assessment. It has also been decided to lay sidewalks on both sides of Laurel avenue between Washington avenue and Fourth street.

LARGE WHEAT CROP FORECAST FOR U.S.

(Associated Press.)

A bumper winter wheat crop of 652,902,000 bushels—48,565,000 more than last year and 105,475,000 larger than the five-year average—was forecast yesterday by the Agriculture Department.

The condition of wheat favored by excellent growing weather in all but a few of the leading producing States during April, was placed at 90.3 per cent of normal on May 1, as compared wth 76.7 on that date a year ago and a ten-year average of 82.1.

Acreage abandonment to May 1 was estimated at 3.7 per cent, as compared with 10.9 in 1930 and a ten-year average of 12.2.

Based on an average yield, spring wheat production has been estimated at 221,000,000 bushels. That would result in a 1931 crop of 871,000,000 bushels, as compared with 851,000,000 last year. Spring wheat, however, has been affected by lack of rain and dust storms and winter wheat may suffer some damage from weather prior to harvest time.

The carry over on July 1 has been estimated at 290,000,000 bushels by the department, most of which is expected to be in the hands of the Grain Stabilization Corporation. The carry over on July 1, 1930, was 275,000,000.

The board announced that a survey showed that 98½ per cent of stabilization wheat was in good condition for milling.

In another report the situation in 11 countries was described by the Agriculture Department as the most unfavorable in years. Reductions in acreages were said to be in prospect in Australia and Argentina. Spring wheat reductions also were indicated in Canada.

Cabman Ordered Kept On Membership Rolls

Justice Jennings Bailey yesterday signed a temporary order prohibiting the Diamond Cab Co. from dropping from its membership rolls Joseph H. Fitzpatrick, owner of a gas station at Fourth street and New York avenue northwest, and owner of five Diamond cabs.

Fitzpatrick claims that he refused to obey an order of the cab company to purchase his gasoline and other supplies from the Diamond Service Stations, Inc., because he could patronize his own place. The company then placed his name on the "no call list" and denied him membership rights. The justice's order restores his name and membership rights pending a hearing May 18.

C. L. Riker Dies At Friends' Home

Former Inventor Directed Dredging Operations for Speedway.

Carroll Livingston Riker, 78 years old, former inventor, farmer, manufacturer and engineer, died Thursday night at the home of his friends, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Schofield, 3534 Edmunds street northwest, following a short illness.

Most of his engineering and business activities were conducted outside of Washington, but he was in charge of the dredging of what is now the Speedway around the Tidal Basin and Washington channel in Potomac Park. He equipped the first refrigerating steamship, and also did considerable dredging around New York Harbor. During the construction of the Panama Canal he was associated closely with Gen. G. W. Goethals.

A native of New York City, he is survived by his widow, Mrs. Elizabeth C. Riker; a daughter, Caroline Riker, of Spokane, Wash.; two sons, a sister and two brothers. Interment will take place in South Orange, N. J.

Illegal Operation Sentence Is Given

David Leroy Russell Led to Jail for Four Years in Girl's Death.

Visibly affected by his several weeks sojourn in the District Jail, David Leroy Russell, who pleaded guilty to committing an illegal operation that caused the death of a young woman, yesterday remained mute when Justice Peyton Gordon, before whom he had been called, asked if he had anything to say before sentence was pronounced.

Russell's attorney told the court that all the information had been given, and that there was nothing more to be said. Justice Gordon meted out a four-year sentence. Russell was then started on his way to the jail.

Russell was indicted on a charge of first degree murder also. The charge was dropped when he entered his plea to the illegal operation. Hazel Chinn, who was indicted with Russell, was not in court. The District Attorney's office has indicated that the two indictments against her will be nolle prossed.

LEGION MEMBERSHIP CAMPAIGN SUCCEEDS

Virginia Department Gains 10,115, Exceeding Quota Set for Year.

Richmond, Va., May 8 (A.P.).—The Virginia Department, American Legion, announced today that its membership drive for 1931 had advanced beyond the 10,000 mark, the member quota set for the year. In attaining an enrollment of 10,115, the department has exceeded by 1,704 the mark of 1930.

Although the 1931 goal has been passed by a large margin, Adjutant W. Glenn Elliott, membership chairman, is confident that several hundred more will be added to the rolls before the annual State convention at Clifton Forge, August 23 to 26.

As a result of the successful enrollment drive, many posts and post officials have won both national and State citations, and a large number of members have been placed on the scroll of honor, which entitles them to wear the distinguished service chevron.

Alexandria, with a total of 585 members, leads the Virginia posts in membership. Post No. 1, Richmond, with 417 members, is running second; Newport News, with 348, is third; Lynchburg, 280, fourth, and Harrisonburg, 269, fifth.

The honor of being the member who put the drive over the top goes to Grant T. Demmons, Newport News, whose card, sent in by Braxton-Perkins Post, of Newport News, was number 10,001.

The department also announced that seven new posts in various sections of the State were organized during the past month, establishing a new record for the department. This brings the new post total for the year to 26 and 137 for the department.

Railroad Cashier Seized in Roanoke.

Roanoke, Va., May 8 (A.P.).—William S. Paley, 61, former cashier for the New York Central Railroad Co., was arrested here today on a charge of grand larceny in connection with the alleged embezzlement of $30,000 or more from the company. He has been indicted in New York County, New York.

SOCIAL LEAGUE FUND DRIVE IS LAUNCHED

Montgomery County Group Will Seek $8,000 in Annual Campaign.

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post, 9103 Conn. Ave., North Chevy Chase, Md. Telephone Wisconsin 4205.

The annual drive for funds of the Montgomery County Social Service League was opened with a dinner at the Manor Club, Norbeck, last night. Citizens of the county will be asked to subscribe $8,000 toward the budget of $24,100 for the new fiscal year.

Dr. J. W. Bird, of Olney, president of the league, resigned the chair to Walter B. Armstrong, of Cabin John, chairman of the finance committee. Mr. Armstrong explained the various items of the budget and introduced the branch chairmen in charge of collections in each district.

Dr. Bird addressed the meeting on the purposes and aims of the league and explained in detail its care for the unfortunates of the county. The Rev. Thomas M. Opie, of Olney, rector of St. Bartholomew's Episcopal Parish, prominent in social service work in North Carolina prior to his recent acceptance of the rectorship in the county, told of his experiences in that State.

Miss Lavinia Engle, member of the Maryland House of Delegates from Montgomery County, who has been prominent in social work for more than a decade, declared there always will be a place for the volunteer social worker in this type of work to supplement the trained case worker. Miss Estelle T. Moore told of the work of the home welfare committee of the league. The assistance of the Montgomery County Federation of Women's Clubs was pledged by Mrs. George C. Shinn. Miss Willie Green Day, newly appointed excutive director of the league, and her staff were presented to the gathering. Miss Day promised cooperation.

Robert E. Bondy, chairman for Bethesda, outlined four reasons why citizens should contribute to the league: First, it is the only general relief agency in the county; second, the large number of persons aided by the league; third, the uncertainty of the months ahead with the possibility of continuance of the drought and unemployment, and, fourth, civic pride.

The county commissioners will donate $11,100 of the budget and the remaining $5,000 has been raised by the Junior Social Service League, the Federation of Women's Clubs and other agencies.

Elimination of toll charges between Washington and Silver Spring and Bethesda and furnishing of metropolitan phone service to subscribers in those areas was announced yesterday by the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. The new service is to become effective June 1.

Subscribers in the Silver Spring section will be changed to Shepherd exchange and in the Chevy Chase from Bradley to Wisconsin. Rates will be the same as those in Washington for the same service for those living within 1 mile of the District line and an additional charge of 50 cents a month will be assessed against those who live beyond this area and within the base area of the Bradley and Silver Spring exchanges. Beyond this area, the service will be subject to a mileage charge.

The change from suburban to metropolitan service is the result of a hard-fought battle for many years by the civic organizations and business associations of the affected areas. The Silver Spring Lons Club, the Bethesda Chamber of Commerce and the Montgomery County Civic Federation have been among leaders in the movement.

Sumners Johnson, 7 years old, of Gaithersburg, was seriously injured yesterday afternoon when he was struck by an automobile operated by Mrs. Bernard T. Brosius, wife of a Rockville automobile dealer, in Gaithersburg. Mrs. Brosius took the boy to a nearby doctor, who found that he had suffered a broken leg and cuts on the head and face. The boy was then taken to Emergency Hospital in Washington.

Mrs. Brosius reported the accident to Corpl. Roy Bodmer, of Rockville headquarters of the Montgomery County police. She said the boy darted from behind a parked car directly in the path of her car and that she did not have time to stop before striking him. Several witnesses corroborated her story.

Suit for absolute divorce from Mrs. Emily Hawkins was asked in a suit filed for Samuel Hawkins yesterday in Rockville circuit court by Attorney Thomas M. Anderson, of Rockville. Both parties live in Montgomery County.

The husband alleges desertion in his petition. They were married in Montgomery County in 1897 and have one child.

Features in Tomorrow's Post

Celebration of Mothers' Day reminds David Rankin Barbee, Post staff writer, of the "Famous Mothers of History," the title of an absorbing article in Sunday's Post in which he pictures their commanding influence over the lives of their sons.

"American Kings in the Caribbean" is the novel caption of a headline feature in The Post's Tabloid magazine drawing a picturesque parallel in the careers of two American gentlemen of fortune—William Walker, the gray-eyed man of destiny, who, in the memory of the older generation, brought Central America under his spell, and King Faustin II, the Marine, who ruled the Island of La Gonave.

It has been said that no woman has been more heartily hated or more deeply respected than Anne Royall, pioneer publicist, whose career forms the theme for an interesting story in tomorrow's Post.

"Far From Home We Play" is a kaleidoscopic view of Washington as the playground for many youngsters, children of the diplomatic colony.

Bridge fans especially should not miss a short story on "A Turn in Luck."

"Shoofly" is another in the series of the sixteen best stories of the year which The Post is presenting. One doesn't read more than a few paragraphs to discover its favor with the judges.

The counselor, Edith Johnson, and a variety of other distinctive Post features will be found in tomorrow's issue.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

OUR OWN PULITZER AWARDS.

TO the American newspaper in which not more than four cartoons used the same joke the same week:—Stony Creek Scimatar-Blade.

To the newspaper which at no time during the year used a picture of a bewhiskered male with the caption, "One of the Season's Charming Brides:—Goose Creek Gazette. ("We had to watch the make-up editor pretty carefully, though," said the publisher with a sigh of relief.)

To the journal which published in its "Letters From Readers" department a letter within six weeks of its receipt:—The Moose Center Clarion, which probably did it by a slip-up of some kind.

To the newspaper which at any time during the year ran on its first page a weather line which agreed with the official weather forecast as published inside the paper:—The Cherokee Falls Leader, whose editor is as much surprised at the award as anybody else.

For the author of a novel published in the United States about which no critic used the phrases "Has amazing depth and scope," "A work of truly stupendous significance," "The novel for which America has been waiting":—Hilary Platzbaum, New Rochelle, N. Y., author of "Fifteen Recipes for Stewing Native Tripe."

* * * *

TO the American newspaper, which at no time during the year conducted any crusades or campaigns for anything whatsoever, ran any editorial entitled "Taxpayers, Arise!" tried to run anybody out of town or sounded a warning against the Red Peril:—Egg Harbor Register-Call. ("We know very well the people of today can't get indignant over anything except the printing of a movie picture star's picture upside down," says Willard B. Zeeple, managing editor.)

To the American cartoonist whose characters appeared for six or more consecutive days without "Pow," "Bam" or "Zowie" in the balloons:—Wingate K. Sludge, of the Rocky Hill Bee. ("Did I do a thing like that!" exclaimed Mr. Sludge today. "If the boss discovers it I'll be dropped like a hot cake.")

To the editor of the Advice to the Love Smitten department who at any time during the year got disgusted enough to tear up all the mail, jump out of the window with a cry of "Baloney!" and go on a week's drunk:—Miss Anastasia Crumpett, of the Constellation Syndicate, Inc.

For the best (unpublished) book of the year on "Who Caused the World War":—Emil Gutzbaum, who, after making a rough draft of the book, read it in amazement and tore it up in disgust.

To the tabloid newspaper editor who found a substitute during 1930 for "Love Nest," "Heart Balm," or "Gun Moll"—Amos L. Snippercup. (Note—Mr. Snippercup was promptly fired by an indignant publisher.)

CHANGE TO BE URGED IN CALLING RECTORS

Episcopal Church Board to Ask That Bishop Share Duty With Parish.

New York, May 8 (A.P.).—The commission on ministry, of the Episcopal Church, will recommend to the triennial general convention in Denver, September 16, that the canon law be changed so that bishop and parish share alike in the selection of a rector, it announced today.

The comission's report will say that a "white collar class" exists in the clergy and that "hit-and-miss" selection is harming both church and pastor.

Under the present system, the commission will say, parishes select a rector without regard for his individual fitness, efficiency or ability. As a result, a pastor with a "rural" mind often finds himself in charge of a metropolitan church and city-bred men must lead suburban flocks, the commission says.

Under the plan to be proposed a list of priests, with individual accomplishments and traits, will be kept, and bishops will approve selection of a pastor only when they believe that pastor will fit into the parish which wishes to extend him a call.

The commission's report says of the present plan, "Prestige, favoritism and stupidity frequently prevail over merit and fitness. The present system results in unrest, dissatisfaction and injury to church work."

It is pointed out that a rectorship, under canonical law, is regarded as a life work, but that average tenure in parishes is four and a half years.

City Firms Given Two School Jobs

Market Shed Bids Turned Down Because Over Fund Limit.

Two school construction contracts were awarded yesterday by District Commissioners. Loudon-Rust Co., Inc., of Washington, was given the job to build the Alexander Shepherd School at Fourteenth street and Kalmia road northwest, on its low bid of $95,665.

The contract to erect the eight-room addition to the Ben W. Murch school, Thirty-sixth and Ellicott streets northwest, was awarded to T. T. Taylor Co., Inc., of Washington, on its bid of $86,520. All bids on the construction of sheds for farmers at the Eastern and Western markets were rejected because they exceeded the amount available.

The Warren F. Brenizer Co. was given a contract for construction of the Thirty-sixth street storm-water sewer, between Newark street and Norton place northwest, at a total estimated cost of $2,122.64. The Commissioners accepted the offer of Sarah Friedlander and others to sell lot 808 in square 491, Municipal Center site, for $28,500.

GRAND JURY HEARS TRIO IN RHEEM CASE

Session Adjourns to Monday Soon After Government Begins Presentation.

The United States Government yesterday began preparation of evidence in the Swartzell, Rheem & Hensey case to the District Grand Jury.

Three witnesses were sent before the grand jury in an abbreviated session. They were Charles T. Malone, of the Department of Justice; Alfred H. Lawson, vice president of the Washington Loan & Trust Co., and Charles W. Handy, an accountant for the Swartzell, Rheem & Hensey Co.

After the witnesses had been excused, the grand jury adjourned until Monday morning, when further hearings are scheduled. Just what is the nature of the indictments the grand jury is asked to return is not known. It was indicated that at least four indictments might be returned if the Government can muster sufficient evidence.

Edmund D. Rheem, vice president of the firm, is now at liberty on $25,000 bail on a United States Commissioner's warrant charging him with embezzlement.

Ritchie and Hart Exchange Visits

Governor and U. S. Academy Head Hold Chats; Former to Rest.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., May 8.—Gov. Albert C. Ritchie and Rear Admiral Thomas C. Hart, newly installed superintendent of the Naval Academy, today exchanged official courtesies.

Rear Admiral Hart being junior to the governor in official rating made the first call. Accompanied by Commander Donald B. Beary, aid, Admiral Hart was driven to the executive mansion in the city and after a brief chat, returned to his quarters in the Naval Reservation and later received the governor. Arrival of the governor was marked by a 17-gun salute from the battery of the station ship Reina Mercedes, and a company of marines and the academy band were paraded in his honor.

Seeking a rest from the arduous work during and subsequent to the Maryland General Assembly session, Gov. Ritchie will leave Annapolis Sunday for Hot Springs, Va. He will be accompanied by Frank A. Furst, veteran Democratic political adviser, of Baltimore City, and they will pass a week or more there.

Former Realty Man Is Given Three Years

Albert N. Wildman, former real estate operator, was sentenced to serve three years in jail yesterday by Justice Peyton Gordon.

Wildman, it was shown, was attempting to meet claims alleged against him, but Justice Gordon declared he would not live long enough to pay them off. Money that had been given to Wildman by clients was alleged by the Government to have been missing when the time came to deliver to the clients notes they were supposed to have bought.

Four-Year Term Given For Criminal Operation

He was convicted of performing a criminal operation on a girl who later died at the Homeopathic Hospital.
